Yanks Capture Terracina

Canadians, Fighting As Corps "Greatly Distinguish Selves"

NAPLES, May 24.—(BUP)—American troops have captured Terracina, coastal anchor of the German defences on the main Italian front, it was announced today, while Canadian armor smashed through the Hitler line in the Liri valley to Melfa river.

NAPLES, May 24.—Allied forces have broken the German defences in three key sectors of the main front in Italy and on the Anzio beachhead in Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's concerted offensive to trap 17 enemy divisions being hammered relentlessly from three directions.

The Canadian Corps of the Eighth Army, fighting as a single unit for the first time, has breached the Hitler line at its strongest point north of Pontecorvo, American and French troops knocked a gap in the southern sector with the capture of Pico and Lenola, and British and American forces, striking from the beachhead, crashed through the Nazi rim in several sectors.

"The Canadian Corps has greatly distinguished itself in this, its first action as a corps," General Alexander's communique said.

American troops cut across the Aprilas Way on both sides of Cisterna in the beachhead fighting and to the northwest of that vital transport hub, 25 miles below Rome, Allied armor knocked out 30 German tanks in a savage four-hour battle.

GAIN HIGH PRAISE

The Canadians, under Lt. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, were fighting forward to capitalize their gains against the stiffest enemy resistance and their assault, as the spearhead of the Eighth Army attack, brought high praise from Alexander.

American armor in the costal sector of the main Italian front at the same time seized Monte Alto, 11 miles north of Terracina, to threaten the German anchor post from two directions and establish an observation of Littoriaa, near the rim of the beachhead and 18 miles from Monte Alto.

Nazi resistance on the bulging beachhead perimeter was lessening after the capture of "many hundreds" of German prisoners and the over-running of strong points on a

King Declares:

Empire Has Men, Weapons To Make Victory Certain

LONDON, May 24.—(CP)—Whatever the dangers still threatening the Empire "we have at this moment to our hand the men, the weapons, the resources and the mastery of the situation which make the final issue certain," the King said last night in his fifth Empire Day message of the war.

Directed to the colonies, the message said colonial troops "side by side with their comrades from all parts of the Empire, have fought and are fighting with their traditional bravery."

"Success crowned their arms in Africa as I know it will in other theatres of war," His Majesty added.

HEAVY BURDEN

The organization of large and small communities and their resources on a war footing, the carrying out of urgent war measures and the planning and execution of programs of war production have thrown a heavy burden upon his colonial governments and legislatures.

"They have, I know, been helped in their tasks by the outstanding and loyal co-operation of the people."

The King paid special tribute to the men and women of his colonial service.

"Many of them in the Far East are now in the hands of the enemy. They are always in our thoughts. Others have left their civil life for military service, where their expert knowledge and experience have been of the greatest value.

"This, with the urgent and always increasing demands of war, has made still harder and more exacting the tasks of those who had to stay at their posts. They have sustained their heavier burden, often under difficult conditions, deprived of the companionship of their wives and families, through long periods of anxiety for their safety and well being.

SEES HAPPIER TIMES

"None have spared themselves. To all I send this expression of my appreciation of their devoted work, and of the hope that with God's help, we shall come, through peril and suffering, to happier times."

HIS MAJESTY THE KING

Australians Laud North Projects

WINNIPEG, May 24—(CP)—Three Australian newspapermen, touring Canada as guests of the Dominion government, arrived in Winnipeg today with enthusiastic reports of their impressions of Western Canada.

The party includes Fred Smith of Melbourne, chairman of the Australian United Press, Allan Dawes and Don Whitington.

Mr. Smith, spokesman for the party, declared he and his colleagues had been greatly impressed by the work done in the Pacific Northwest.

"We think the Australian people will be very comforted by the offensive preparations Canada has built up on the west coast, the Alaska highway and the Canol project," he said.

"The direction of these and other developments are pointed at Japan's back door and the vastness of all this leaves us with the impression that after the European campaign is ended this continent will provide one of the major offensive springboards against Japan."

Farms on Prairies Drenched by Rain

WINNIPEG, May 24. — (CP) — Heavy rains throughout the prairie provinces continued unabated during the day, drenching farm lands that earlier faced a serious moisture deficiency. Almost every weather station reported precipitation.

Lloydminster, Sask., reported 2.32 inches of rain, while Outlook, Sask., had a 1.85-inch fall. Alberta precipitation ranged from .05 at Calgary to .66 at Edmonton and 1.22 inches at Vegreville.

Intermittent showers fell at Winnipeg during the afternoon, but turned into a downpour at night.

Forecasts indicated more showers in all three provinces.

Many Injured

Five Persons Die in Hamilton Dance Hall Fire

HAMILTON, Ont., May 24—(CP)—List of dead in a flash fire which swept through a crowded dance hall early today rose to five with the death in hospital of James Numbers, 39, and William Whitley, 41. Eight others were critically injured, and another 28 less seriously hurt.

It was feared the death toll might ultimately be eight.

All but one of the men and women attending a staff party of the Royal Oak dairy in the Moose Hall jumped or were crowded through second storey windows 30 feet above the ground.

"They came out all in flames, like torches," said one witness, Arthur Grimshaw of Hamilton.

The dead, all of Hamilton, were: Mrs. Roy Martin, 35; William Cleland, 40; Mrs. Anne Whitley, 41; Jerry Numbers, 39; William Whitley, 41.

Chinese Attacking On Honan Fronts

CHUNGKING, May 24.—(AP)—The high command announced today the Chinese launched a counter-offensive on all sectors in embattled Honan province Monday and had driven back the Japanese. Thus alleviating the menace to China's agricultural northwest.

At the same time it was announced that Loyang, encircled in the centre of the sprawling battle area and with its garrison facing wholesale massacre if the Japanese entered, still was in Chinese hands.

The Honan counter-offensive, the announcement said, has removed for the time being the possibility of a major frontal clash between the Chinese and Japanese armies.

Japanese threatening the northwest area both along the Lunghai railway and farther south fell back.

Soviet Threatens Break Relations With Bulgarians

These reports said the Bulgars received the Soviet ultimatum in a stern note Monday.

Safecrackers Get $300 in Robbery

Entering the Pringle Hatcheries, 10127 102 street, sometime between 2 and 2:45 a.m. Wednesday, safecrackers opened a strongbox on the premises and obtained $300 in cash. Cheques and money orders in the vault were left behind, according to city police.

Discovery of the entry was made by George Brown, 10455 98 street, night watchman. He notified the hatchery manager, L. E. Smith, 10624 109 street, who, in turn, called police officers.

Police found that the safe had been punched open by means of a heavy hammer and an auto valve stem. It was believed that several persons were involved as the heavy container had been moved about three feet from its regular position.

Entry was believed to have been made by an elevator shaft door at the rear of the building.

LONDON, May 24.—An estimated 4,500 Allied warplanes from Britain and Italy poured bombs and bullets into Axis Europe from the channel coast to the Alps today, with American heavy bomber formations striking a triple blow at Berlin and the suburbs of Paris and Vienna.

The R.A.F.'s speedy Mosquito bombers opened the sixth straight day of the pre-invasion bombardment with a slashing night foray across France and the Ruhr Valley to Berlin.

Allied daylight raiders took up the attack at dawn, thundering out in seemingly endless waves to sow fire and steel across the continent.

Army Truck Goes Through Bridge

REVELSTOKE, B.C., May 24—(CP)—An army truck, part of a 600-vehicle convoy heading for Wainwright, Alta., from coastal stations, went through the Downey Creek bridge on the Big Bend highway 53 miles east of here yesterday, an army official announced.

The big truck skidded in the wet snow, he said. Fate of the driver of the truck was not announced.

The first section of the convoy from coastal stations and from Vernon, B.C., military camp crossed into Alberta over the Great Divide yesterday. The second section streamed into Golden, B.C., for an overnight stay last night and continued today on the lap which would take it also into Alberta.

Germany May Lose Territory

Churchill Favors World Order Backed by Force to Keep Peace; Sees Coming Victory in Balkans

LONDON, May 24.—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill in the House of Commons today came out strongly in favor of setting up a world order backed by force to maintain peace and said there was no guarantee Germany would fail to undergo territorial changes if such changes would render Europe's peace more secure.

Empire Day

Celebrations Are Curtailed Result Weather

Many Empire Day celebrations, including picnics, lake trips and other amusements were cancelled owing to the rainfall which overnight reached .04 of an inch. Rain and light scattered showers were forecast for Wednesday afternoon.

Temperature at 2 p.m. was 50 and the estimated high for the day was 57. Country roads and highways in the northern section of the province were reported in "poor condition."

Golf clubs were busy from early morning as ardent golfers braced the threatening weather to play in many club events. Theatres were preparing for capacity business to meet the patronage of those who were forced to abandon outdoor amusements because of the inclement weather.

Rainfall in the Peace River and Slave Lake districts of northern Alberta have put forest fires there in the "mopping up" stage, it was reported by T. F. Blefgen, provincial forestry director.

Reports from V. W. Mitchell, timber inspector at Peace River, and J. K. Jensen, Slave Lake, say rain in those areas has started mopping up action by fire fighters. At Peace River, the weather is cool and cloudy, and prospects for Wednesday indicate still more rain.

No report was received by Mr. Blefgen from Grande Prairie, but it is expected the same conditions prevail there.

At lookout stations at Lovett and Mayberne, from three to four and one-half inches of snow was reported by rangers. Snow was still falling at press time in these districts.

The Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce picnic to be held at the golf links was cancelled.

CARRIED ON

Members of the Canadian Institute of the Blind, Edmonton, carried on with plans for their picnic and gathering at the I.O.O.F. hall at 2 p.m.

Officials of the Jasper Place Community league decided early to go ahead with the annual track and field day of the community.

Downtown streets were practically deserted Wednesday as business and wholesale houses were closed. Only banks, and Dominion government offices were open.

Gardens are planned to finish their gardens Wednesday reported the soil too wet.

King Takes Strong Stand on Arson

OTTAWA, May 24—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday in the Commons that any act of arson could not be too strongly condemned, particularly if it was assisted in any way with the stirring up of racial or religious strife.

He was answering M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, who asked if the Prime Minister would make a statement in view of the "objectionable" event in Quebec where a Jewish synagogue was burned a few days ago.

He asked Mr. King to express his condemnation of such incident, and said Justice Minister St. Laurent should see the Royal Canadian Mounted Police co-operated to whatever extent was necessary in finding the culprits.

Mr. King, who returned from the London conference of Empire prime ministers Tuesday, said he had not had time to read accounts of the Quebec fire.

Special Empire Day Broadcast

TORONTO, May 24—(CP)—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation here announced last night a special Empire Day feature from Britain will be broadcast over the Trans-Canada network tonight. It will be carried from 10-10:30 p.m., M.D.T., in Western Canada. Included in the feature will be brief recorded messages from the prime ministers of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Empire Day

Churchill's Address

In a confident 85-minute speech opening an important foreign policy debate, the prime minister looked towards the Balkans as a theatre of coming victory and told the house that the Atlantic Charter "in no way binds us about the future" of Germany.

"We intend to set up a world order equipped with all the necessary attributes of power in order to prevent the breaking out of wars or long planning of them by reckless and ambitious nations," he said.

"We have great hopes that Rome may be preserved."

BACKED BY DOMINIONS

In his proposal for a world order for maintaining peace the prime minister—who spoke on Empire day —had the full backing of the Dominions whose premiers in the conference recently concluded in London agreed that just such an organization was desirable.

In his speech, the prime minister said the Allies had "suspended" efforts to bring Turkey in with them but "it looks probable . . . the Allies will be able to win in the Balkans and throughout Southeast Europe without Turkey being involved in it at all, although of course the aid of Turkey would be of great help and acceleration in that process."

Mr. Churchill criticized those who "insult and abuse" the Franco government in Spain. Spain's internal policies, he contended, were a matter for Spaniards alone.

Bloody Battle At Myitkyina

By WALTER LOGAN

KANDY, Ceylon, May 24.—Chinese infantrymen have cleared the Japanese from the railway and road junction on the western edge of Myitkyina, a communique said today, as bloody fighting raged through the city's barricaded streets for the sixth straight day.

The communique revealed that the cornered Japanese were counter-attacking repeatedly from Myitkyina's western and southern outskirts in a desperate attempt to break out of the tightening Allied trap.

Chinese units beat the enemy steadily back into the city, however, despite torrential rains that hampered their aerial support and slowed all ground operations.

More than 40 miles to the west, Chinese troops continued their slogging advance southward through the Mogaung valley toward Kamaing, while British Chindit forces closed in from the south.

Meanwhile, a Chungking communique reported that Chinese troops in China's northern Honan Province scored initial success at several key points.

Three Employees Of Ball Bearing Works Arrested

STOCKHOLM, May 24.—(AP)—Three employees of the S.K.F. ball-bearing works at Goteborg have been arrested on charges of supplying information to a foreign power about the size of orders and destinations, the newspaper Aftonbladet said today.

Two of the employees were Swedes and the other was described as a foreigner. All worked in the company's other department, and Aftonbladet quoted one as saying he furnished information to the unnamed foreign power for "ideological reasons."

Bank in Montreal Robbed of $4,000

MONTREAL, May 24—(CP)—Two bandits, described by bank employees as "very young," yesterday held up a branch of the Banque Provinciale on Notre Dame street west, near Atwater avenue, and escaped with about $4,000. Teller J. Bonnet and two women employees of the bank were forced at revolver-point to keep their hands in the air while the bandits snatched up the money and backed out of the door.

Welfare Council President Tells Of Organization

Welfare work throughout the Dominion has been given a great impetus through wartime conditions, and the more the war becomes a total war the more important the community strength behind the armed forces, Philip S. Fisher, Montreal, president of the Canadian Welfare Council, told an audience at a luncheon in his honor at the Macdonald hotel on Tuesday.

Mr. Fisher was introduced by W. A. MacDonald, publisher of the Edmonton Journal, and host at the luncheon.

At the national meeting of the Canadian Welfare Council in Winnipeg last week Mr. Fisher was re-elected for his fourth successive term as president. He is air force representative on the executive of the Canadian Legion, and stopped over in Edmonton on his way to attend the Legion's national convention in Vancouver.

AT HEAD TABLE

Seated at the head table were His Honor J. C. Bowen, lieutenant governor of the province; Hon. Ernest Manning, premier of Alberta; Mayor John W. Fry, and Major General W. W. Foster, C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., special commissioner for defence projects in Northwest Canada.

Introducing Mr. Fisher the host, Mr. MacDonald, said that while Mr. Fisher was vice-president and managing director of the Southam Company of Montreal, the owners of the Edmonton Journal and five other Canadian daily newspapers, and a very busy man, he had given lavishly of his time to charitable and welfare work in Canada. He referred to Mr. Fisher's distinguished career in the air force in the Great War from which he was demobilized in 1919 with the rank of captain.

Opening his address, Mr. Fisher said he was pleased to be again visiting Edmonton, adding that he was an old visitor here and recognized many familiar faces.

The Canadian Welfare Council, he said, was a vast trade association for the schools. Royal Canadian Mounted Police were in charge of the search.

On Eve of Invasion

German "Gloom" Seen as Ruse To Make Allies Over-Confident

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

LONDON, May 24—(AP)—German propaganda reached a deep pitch of gloom yesterday, perhaps in an attempt to create Allied over-confidence on the eve of invasion.

In a broadcast from the Nazi-controlled Paris radio, the French commentator, Robert de Beaupian, said that as a result of the Allied aerial offensive against communications targets, "the French railway system is in complete chaos."

AXIS ANNIVERSARY

It was the fifth anniversary of the formation of the Axis military alliance, and there was sobriety even in the message Hitler sent Mussolini on the occasion: "I want to express my unshakable belief that despite all difficulties that have to be overcome, at the end of this struggle the tri-partite powers will have victory."

Whatever their motive, the Nazis permitted the French commentator de Beaupian to draw this gloomy picture of inside France.

"The French railway system is in complete chaos. The Allies have successfully pulverized into rubble whole marshalling yards. They have destroyed countless locomotives.

"Saboteurs have also put out of action the whole hydro-electric system in France . . . the whole problem of transport in France is a desolate sight, and the temper of the population, especially that of Paris, is rising, because no food is available, nobody can travel and there are restrictions in the use of electricity.

GERMANS BLAMED

"Frenchmen are blaming the Germans for all this misery which has descended on France."

Here in Britain still more passenger trains were cancelled as time-tables throughout the country were put on a virtual day-to-day basis to facilitate movement of troops.

Heavy Fighting

Canadians Gain Objectives Despite Fierce Resistance

By DOUGLAS AMARON

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, May 24.—(CP)—Canadian infantry gained their first objectives in a drive through the Hitler line, despite the most fierce resistance from enemy machine-guns, mortars, tanks and self-propelled guns.

(Allied headquarters in Naples announced in today's communique that the Canadian Corps, in action as a corps for the first time, had "breached" the enemy positions north of Pontecorvo in the Liri Valley after bitter fighting.)

The Germans, with the largest tank support they have had in this campaign, made a determined effort to smash up the assault into their main defences but Maritime and Western Canada battalions, aided by British tanks, established a firm line yesterday.

ARMOR IN ACTION

The attack was continuing late yesterday with French-speaking Canadians (possibly the Royal 22nd Regiment) and more Maritimers passing through the troops who made the morning penetration. Canadian armor supported the afternoon push.

The assault was launched early Tuesday after a barrage from several hundred guns. It met stiff opposition from the start and the Canadians had to fight their way forward yard by yard. Western Canada infantry especially found the going heavy and supporting tanks suffered considerable losses from mines and self-propelled guns.

The Germans, however, were unable to stem the push despite the use of some of their heavy tiger tanks and a steady stream of prisoners poured back into the Canadian cages throughout the day. Although they have been in action for just a week, Canadian infantry already have accounted for more than 600 prisoners.

FIERCE OPPOSITION

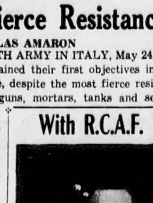

While the main push was going forward, Ontario troops who occupied high ground due south of Pontecorvo Monday continued their slow prodding through enemy lines well-defended with machine-guns. The opposition here was extremely fierce, for the Hitler line—the northern end of which is still partly intact—hinges on Pontecorvo.

The heaviest fighting along the main Canadian line was at the northern end where tanks were held up for a time by a minefield and western Canada infantry had to go forward alone. The Germans had the ground covered with many machine-guns and these had to be wrinkled out one by one.

The enemy put in a strong counter-attack in this area during the afternoon but by this time tank support was available and it was beaten off after heavy fighting. At least eight German tanks and 20 self-propelled guns were put out of action along the whole Canadian front during the day.

The ground here is difficult for tank fighting because there are many trees and high grass, which make ideal hiding places for anti tank guns.

End Alternative Service Meeting

CALGARY, May 24—(CP)—The three-day conference on alternative service and dominion-provincial farm labor concluded here yesterday.

The morning session dealt with the allocation of conscientious objectors with agricultural experience to farmers. Conchies, specifically recommended by the provincial operating agency of the dominion-provincial committee on farm labor, are directed by alternative service officers.

Placements of conscientious objectors made this spring in the western provinces were reviewed by the meeting.

With George Haythorne, Ottawa associate director of agriculture for the National Selective Service, in the chair, on Wednesday afternoon discussed general problems in farm labor supply and movements of workers on a seasonal or interprovincial basis.

There are 9,000 conscientious objectors in Canada that must be dealt with by the board, L. C. Coleman, associate director (war industries) and chief alternative service officer, announced.

Loggers' Strike Spreads in U.S.

SEATTLE, May 24.—(AP)—The number of mills closed in the American Pacific northwest passed the 50 mark yesterday and another serious threat to a general shutdown of the entire billion-dollar vital war materials industry loomed last night.

Boom men—workers handling logs going to mills by water—walked off their jobs at Tacoma to join the estimated 15,000 mill workers, who quit in protest against the United States War Labor Board's denial of wage increases.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 24.—(AP)—A tie-up of logging operations in the Portland area loomed yesterday as a walkout of 15,000 Northwest Sawmill workers spread to boom men at four large log booms on the Willamette river.

Chester F. Sorenson, chairman of the Pacific Northwest Loggers' Association, said the lack of boom facilities would cause an almost immediate shutdown of logging operations dependent on the booms.

Canadian Corps Wins Distinction On Italo Front

front now pressed northerstward across a broad stretch of the historic Appian Way.

ONE ESCAPE ROUTE

With the loss of the Appian Way and the trunk railroad angling across it at Cisterna the Germans had only the Via Casilina, some 25 miles beyond, as a main arterial from the main front to fight the Battle of Rome.

It was revealed that British troops on the northern flank of the beachhead struck Monday night in a diversionary attack while the reinforced American troops were massing for the subsequent general assault. United Kingdom tanks and infantry in their first onslaught crossed the Moletta river and fanned out northward.

Allied planes were out in force to support all the Allied offensives. Light and medium bombers concentrating on the Priverno-Valmonte road behind the beachhead caught a truck convoy and destroyed 100 vehicles.

Warhawks and Thunderbolts ranging the entire battle zones damaged another 100 or so trucks which the Germans had thrown into the effort to sustain their hard pressed land forces.

The American attack on the beachhead at first carried the Allied line more than a mile through the German ring, it was announced and later the enemy defences were cut on both sides of Cisterna.

7,500 PRISONERS

By noon yesterday they had rounded up about 300 prisoners, and headquarters announced today that the total Allied bag of Germans captured since the start of the Italian offensive 13 days ago had mounted to well over 7,500 on all fronts.

The BBC reported that the Americans held more than a mile of the Appian Way just below Cisterna, German bastion anchoring the defences before the northeast corner of the beachhead, and one U.S. unit was within half a mile of the town square.

A German war correspondent was avoided as reporting that the thunder of guns in the beachhead battle was heard clearly in Rome, but "the people are calm."

Front dispatches said the Germans were massing tanks and infantry for an expected counter-attack southeast of Cisterna.

PRESSING ATTACK

All along the main front, the Allies pressed their drive westward, the Eighth Army making substantial progress in its smashing assault on the Hitler line.

Supported by tanks and guns, the Canadian Corps struck at the centre of the upper German defence system and bitter fighting raged through high grass, which make ideal hiding places for anti tank guns.

The Germans still were holding out in Piedimonte, where hand-to-hand street fighting has been going on for days. The Polish units assaulting the town had it almost surrounded.

NAZIS SHORT OF TANKS

Evidence that the Germans were running short of tanks was seen in the fact that a large number of tank crews were converted into so-called "improvised assault companies" assigned to man pillboxes.

"This is an exceptionally wasteful role for trained tank crews," an official commentary said.

Clinton B. Conger, British United Press war correspondent, reported from the Pontecorvo sector of the Eighth Army front that the Germans foothold in the Liri valley hung in the balance at nightfall last night as the Canadians and United Kingdom British battled through the centre of the Hitler line segment.

Bitter fighting raged also in the upper area of the Fifth Army front where the Nazis strove to stem French thrust across the Liri Valley from the Pico-Monteleuccio.

THREATEN TERRACINA

Terracina, the German coastal anchor, was threatened from both north and east afire the fall of the dominating heights above it.

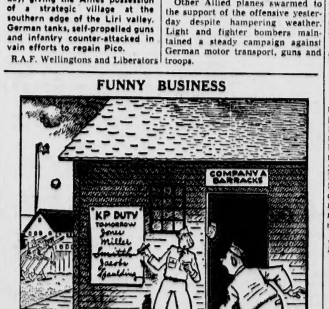

The capture of Pico and Lenola by American and French forces opened the way for new advances on the Fifth Army front. Lenola fell late Monday after strong resistance by elements of the German 94th infantry division.

Pico was captured the same day, giving the Allies possession of a strategic village at the southern edge of the Liri valley. German tanks, self-propelled guns and infantry counter-attacked in vain efforts to regain Pico.

R.A.F. Wellingtons and Liberators attacked Ferenino and Valmonte on the Froisome-Rome highway last night, and also hit troop concentrations and communications between Rome and Cassino.

Other Allied planes swarmed to the support of the offensive yesterday despite hampering weather. Light and fighter bombers maintained a steady campaign against German motor transport, guns and troops.

Railway Workers Receive "V" Flag

CALGARY, May 24.—Canada is now the world's third largest exporting nation and the fourth largest manufacturing nation, W. A. Anderson, of the Alberta National War Finance Committee, told 2,000 workers in the munitions department of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Ogden shops here yesterday.

He was presenting to the workers through Bert Taylor, chairman of the federated trades and Victory Loan organizer for the plant, the "V" flag which they won in the recent Sixth Victory Loan drive when 1,192 employees bought bonds and war savings certificates to an average of $196 per buyer.

U.S. Forces Expand Bridgehead Close To Captured Wakde

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, May 24—(AP)—United States army forces pressing toward two northern New Guinea airfields have expanded their bridgehead at the mouth of the Tor river opposite captured Wakde Island, headquarters announced today.

Reinforcements have reached the Americans, largely from transport planes which are using the Wakde airstrip.

Heavy bombers hitting to the west dumped 150 tons of bombs on Biak island in the Schouten group to the north of Geelvink Bay, leaving towering fires.

German Peoples' Courts Will Try Captured Fliers

LONDON, May 24.—(CP)—German peoples' courts will try Allied pilots shot down during fighter plane attacks on trains and communications in Germany, a German broadcast quoted by the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet, said yesterday. Ever since the great Allied fighter sweep over Germany Sunday, Nazi propaganda has charged that the attacks were made mainly against trains carrying women and children, and that pilots shot down farmers in their fields.

HITLER ORDERS DEFENCE LINE FOR AUSTRIA

ZURICH, May 24—(CP)—Hitler has ordered the last-minute construction of a new defence system for Austria, says a dispatch from Vienna to the Journal de Geneva. "The highest German military authorities seem convinced that the Wehrmacht will be unable to maintain its present position in the Balkans for very long and has thus decided to defend the frontiers of the old Reich on Austrian soil," said the dispatch.

The night fighters were up and one of them got the rear-gunner, hitting him fatally. Then the mid-upper turret was knocked out and bullets ripped through other parts of the Lanc.

Fire started. And the boys put that out while Hunt wrestled to keep his aircraft on course.

BECAME NOSE-HEAVY

Almost at once the Lancaster became nose-heavy and Hunt, holding back the control column with both hands and all his strength, found he just wasn't strong enough to keep the plane steady. So the crew—what was left of it—rigged a wire back from the control column to the mid-upper turret and helped Hunt by sagging their weight on the wire.

When the plane reached the target, more flak came up and hit the bomb doors.

The bomb aimer got his load away and then, with the wireless operator, hacked away the rear turret doors. With difficulty, because the oxygen supply had been damaged, they got the rear gunner out and gave him first aid as they headed for home.

The compass was gone and Hunt got his bearings from the exhaust of other homing planes. Suddenly, as the Lanc headed out to sea towards home it turned on its own and flew back towards the enemy coast. Somehow the boys righted it.

SPITFIRES AS GUIDES

By now Hunt could steer by the rising sun and the crew managed to fly on either side and guide him in.

But misfortune was still ahead. The starboard undercarriage collapsed on landing and it was found that the hydraulics had been shot up, the main plane and fuselage riddled by bullets and the cowling of the starboard inner engine had been punctured.

Somehow they got down. Then the flight engineer told the crew he had been wounded in both arms and legs and was taken to hospital with the rear-gunner who died there.

Says Junior Bank Clerks Underpaid

OTTAWA, May 24—(CP)—Bruce McMeekin, Conservative member of the Commons banking committee today he believed junior bank employees were underpaid, but S. M. Wedd, Toronto, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, replied that he considered such employees' wages now were in line with those paid in other activities.

Some years ago Mr. McNevin's statement might have been made more appropriately, said Mr. Wedd.

Mr. McNevin asked whether there was any foundation for the statement that 90 per cent of loans in the banks were made on "wind" rather than on actual assets.

Mr. Wedd replied that government permitted banks to loan the proceeds of deposits, but also ruled that the banks could not invest more than 95 per cent of these deposits.

Leon Blackmore, Social Credit house leader, said the banks loaned only 35 per cent of what they had on deposit. There should be no fear that using the Bank of Canada to finance the war would cause inflation.

First Definition Of Italy's Foreign Policy Is Given

NAPLES, May 24— (CP) — The Badoglio cabinet yesterday issued its first definition of Italy's foreign policy in the form of a unanimously approved cabinet resolution.

The entire foreign policy of the Fascist regime was contrary to the will and interests of the Italian people, said the resolution. It condemned the declarations of war against France, Britain, Soviet Russia, Greece and Yugoslavia, Russia and Albania. There was no mention of Ethiopia.

"Proud to fight against her real enemy, Italy intends to continue the war until the total defeat of Hitlerite Germany, against the new appearance of the German racialist and militarist tyranny is also the supreme interest of Italians," the resolution said.

Men Describe Rescue After Warship Sunk

HALIFAX, May 24—(CP)—Seamen who escaped from the sinking of H.M.C.S. Athabaskan in a small boat told yesterday how they were picked up by German minesweepers, surveyed by Messerschmitt fighters and escorted by R.A.F. Spitfires before they landed safely in Britain.

They were among a group of 35 survivors of the English channel battle that saw the sinking of the Athabaskan and the destruction of a Nazi destroyer April 29. Back home on leave, they described their experiences for newsmen at a Navy press conference.

PICKED UP BY HAIDA

A motorboat from H.M.C.S. Haida, the lost destroyer's companion-in-arms in the scrap, picked up six of the Athabaskan's men and sailed them 105 miles to Britain.

"We were between 15 and 16 hours in the boat," said AB. Stanley Buck of Toronto. "First of all, three German minesweepers coming out from the French coast for survivors chased us for 20 minutes.

"Then," he continued, "we saw two planes heading for Britain and coming directly for us. They turned out to be ME109's.

"They didn't shoot at us, though," said PO. George Caswell of Victoria, audic man on the Athabaskan, as he took up the tale. "They raced over us low at between 300 and 400 miles an hour, and pilots just gave us a casual look. They were just above the waves, and you could see the pilots plainly."

PLENTY OF ESCORT

"Later, we had plenty of escort. Two Spitfires were with us and one stood by us while the other left, then, two more Spits and a Walrus came along, and we had lots of company for the rest of the way."

Eventually, an R.A.F. crash boat picked up the survivors and a brought them into Penzance. PO. Caswell's memento of his experience is the script of a transatlantic radio broadcast in which he participated, after the sinking, with Ronald Colman and Olivia DeHavilland speaking with him from Hollywood.

Monetary Proposal Is Exact Opposite Of Gold Standard

LONDON, May 24.—(CP)—Lord Keynes, British financial expert, who is believed played a big part in devising the international monetary plan, declared in the House of Lords yesterday that the plan was the exact opposite of the essence and the meaning of the gold standard.

Speaking during a debate on the monetary plan, Lord Keynes said, "In this country we have already fashioned gold as the fixed standard of value. This plan approves that dethronement by expressly providing that it is the duty of the fund to alter the gold value of any currency if it is shown that this would be serviceable to the equilibrium."

Keynes disclosed that Britain's share of the international monetary fund, provisionally put at $10,000,000,000, was $1,300,000,000.

Says C.C.F. Party Has No Intention Of Seizing Lands

GULL LAKE, Sask., May 24.—(CP)—Rev. T. C. Douglas, Saskatchewan C.C.F. leader, said in a provincial election campaign address here yesterday that his party has no intention of making farmers give up title to their land.

He said a C.C.F. administration would enact measures to ensure the farmer possession of his land.

"The C.C.F. land policy is the only policy that will keep the mortgage company from taking title to your farm," he said.

Mr. Douglas claimed 12,000 families in Saskatchewan had been compelled to give up their titles during the Liberal administration, and declared that if a single farm family lost title to its home during a C.C.F. administration headed by himself, that administration would resign.

Nazis Convinced Invasion Coming Through Denmark

LONDON, May 24.—Reports from Stockholm said today that Germany, convinced that the Allies will attempt a landing in Denmark, has divided Jutland and the Island of Fyn into four "invasion administrative zones."

Other Nazi preparations to meet what the German command apparently believes is an imminent attack included the destruction of two villages in lengthening the runways for an airfield on the east coast of Jutland, Stockholm dispatches.

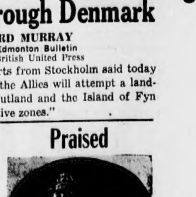

The Germans have sent frequent reconnaissance planes over the Scottish coasts in quest of signs of any Allied preparations for a thrust across the North Sea to Denmark, which offers one of the shortest invasion routes to Berlin.

The French news service, maintained by the French national committee, said the Germans have taken their first step toward an eventual withdrawal from France to the fatherland.

A group of 180 German women left Paris for Germany May 14, the first such contingent of evacuees since Nazi occupation of France in 1940, the agency said. German army officers and civil servants also were said to have sent their heavy baggage back to Germany.

The British air ministry, meantime, disclosed that a special aerial striking force was being assembled to "blast German U-boat bases on the French coast when the invasion begins."

tactical strikers hammered at the network of enemy railways and airfields along and behind the Channel coast.

By late afternoon observers estimated that the tactical air forces in Britain had hurled some 3,000 planes against the continent, including the medium raiders, and the parade of destruction was still continuing.

Early reports indicated that the triple blows at the three nerve centres of the Axis war machine had stung the luftwaffe severely and aerial battles were reported raging all the way from the channel coast to the Alps.

POUNDS WEST WALL

While Berlin and the Parisian suburbs rocked under the assaults, hundreds of R.A.F., Dominion and Allied planes swarmed over northern France to resume the pre-invasion bombardment of Hitler's west wall.

Swarms of medium bombers, fighters and fighter-bombers shuttled across the sunlit Dover Straits throughout the morning and early afternoon, and the rumble of heavy explosions coming from the Pas de Calais area could be heard clearly on the British Coast.

Nazi broadcasters described the attack on Berlin as a "terror raid," indicating that upwards of 1,000 tons of high explosives and fire bombs were showered down on the city.

Cheque For $780 From Doukhobors Rejected by Govt.

OTTAWA, May 24—(CP)—Efforts of the central executive of the "named Doukhobors" to make a $780 donation to war sufferers were disclosed yesterday in a return tabled in the Commons by J. G. Diefenbaker (P.C.—Lake Centre).

The money, collected at Blaine Lake and Langham, Sask., was sent to Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service, in November, 1943. The group had carried on lengthy correspondence with Mr. MacNamara concerning the position of members of their sect under compulsory service regulations. Mr. MacNamara returned the cheque.

"The willingness of your group to contribute to a humanitarian cause is appreciated, but we must make clear that such a contribution could have no bearing on the responsibilities of Doukhobors under the government regulations administered by this department," he wrote.

WAR PRISONERS' AID

As the Young Men's Christian Association observes its Centennial Anniversary of its founding in 1844 by George Williams and its associates, it finds itself serving in many diversified manners. One of the most appreciated services is that provided for the Barond-Wire Legion. Several millions of men are behind barbed-wire today and the Y.M.C.A. secretaries who visit the prisoner-of-war camps regularly endeavor to make the tedious days of confinement alive with some constructive activities.

Since the outbreak of hostilities in 1939, the War Prisoners' Aid of the Y.M.C.A. has worked among the prisoners of war of all nations, irrespective of their nationality, creed or race. The governments have welcomed this service because it helps maintain the morale of the prisoners and assures a similar service for their own men in the hands of the enemy. Forty secretaries, mostly from neutral countries, visit regularly the camps and provide some of the materials—such as athletic goods, books, musical instruments, painting materials, games, Bibles, crucifixes and prayer cloths—which enable the prisoners to utilize profitably the monotonous hours of internment.

Debate Marketings

Govt. Is Seeking Agreement To Assure Canada of U.K. Beef Market for Duration

OTTAWA, May 24.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said yesterday in the Commons the government was attempting to sign an agreement with Britain which would assure Canada a beef market in the United Kingdom for the duration of the war at least.

Mr. Gardiner, speaking during continued examination of his department's estimates, said the government was attempting to reach an agreement which would suit Britain's needs and Canada's necessities.

Many people had wondered why the government had not re-opened the United States cattle market, said Mr. Gardiner.

"I now can say that we have bought more cattle for Britain than we could have shipped to the United States if the market there had been open," he said.

BUY 107,000 HEAD

More than 107,000 head of cattle had been purchased for Britain, he continued. And Britain was "pressing for all the beef we can send." Britain was prepared to provide the shipping space.

Re-opening of the United States market would have complicated the marketing situation both in Canada and the United States, he continued. American packing plants were working overtime just a were Canadian plants. The United States had the greatest livestock population in history just as Canada had its greatest population.

It was doubtful if United States buyers would even be interested in buying Canadian meat at prices lower than they were paying in the United States.

ADVICE AIDED FARMERS

Mr. Gardiner said farmers had profited by his advice given in 1942 to feed their cattle during the winter months rather than sell them in the fall of that year.

John Blackmore, Social Credit house leader, said that in his constituency of Lethbridge, Alta., there was the impression of the people being given the "run-around" in attempting to obtain information on cattle policies.

He said it was impossible for a person to profit if he paid 8½ cents a pound for a fat cow in the fall, fed it all winter and then had to sell at from 6 to 7½ cents a pound in the spring.

He said he wondered why the meat board had failed to buy beef until beef producers had lost heavily and prices went down. The condition was "reprehensible."

Mr. Gardiner said Mr. Blackmore should return to his constituency and convince the people of the advice given them on the marketing of cattle was not suitable to conditions prevailing on 90 per cent of the farms in Canada.

NOT DUE TO POLICY

There was a suggestion that the farmers had lost money as a result of the government's marketing policy. This was not borne out by figures.

In the first week of January, 1942, beef on the Calgary market sold at $9.25 a 100 pounds. In the corresponding week of 1943, it sold at $10.50 and in the corresponding week of 1944 at $11.35. In the week of May 18, 1942, the price was $10.50, compared with $11.35 in 1944. In some cases the 1944 price was lower than that of 1943, but it never was lower than that of 1942.

Mr. Blackmore said feeders in his constituency had suffered a "devastating loss" because they could not find buyers although in the previous year buyers had been scouring the country looking for cattle.

FACILITIES FOR SALES

There should be facilities for the sale of beef cattle when they were ready. There was a point after which cattle did not gain much weight. No man feeding cattle last fall could conceive he would be unable to sell this spring.

Mr. Gardiner said he had been told a western feeder might buy cattle at 10 cents a pound in the spring and sell profitably at nine cents a pound in the fall due to the gain in the animal's weight.

Mr. Blackmore said that with a higher ceiling price in 1944 than in 1943, the prices paid producers were lower. The whole situation had been "bungled."

Mr. Gardiner said he (Gardiner) did not sell his cattle at the prices protested by Mr. Blackmore. Many persons carried their cattle through the period when the market was glutted until April or May.

Mr. Blackmore said the cattle were ready for market in February, but the government system for purchasing them did not come into operation.

TAKEN OFF MARKET

Mr. Gardiner said general information had gone out on the prices to be paid. Beef still was being taken off the market in large quantities by government agencies, such surpluses being shipped to the United Kingdom.

Mr. Blackmore said that if the packing plants failed to purchase cattle from the producers nothing was done.

Mr. Gardiner said there did not seem to be anyone in Alberta prepared to sell cattle at the floor price at which the Meat Board begins to buy. The Alberta breeders wanted higher prices.

Before study of the agriculture estimates were resumed, the Commons recognized Empire day by singing "God Save the King," at the suggestion of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Speaker J. A. Glen said two members had drawn his attention to the fact that a vacancy existed in the house as a result of the recent death of Eugene Durocher, Liberal member for Montreal St. James. Mr. Glen said he had given instructions that a new writ for election in the constituency be issued.

COMPLETE ESTIMATES

At the evening sitting examination of agriculture estimates totalling $73,666,070 was completed and the house turned to the study of the war estimates of the mines and resources department.

Canada Urged To Investigate Oil Resources

OTTAWA, May 24—(CP)—G. H. Castleden (C.C.F.—Yorkton) said last night in the Commons that the Dominion government should spend more money in investigating oil resources in the northwest territory which were evidently being turned over "lock, stock and barrel" to the other agencies.

An agreement had been entered into between the United States government and the Canadian Imperial Oil Co. for exploration of possible fields in the Mackenzie, he said. Imperial Oil was owned by the United States Standard Oil Company.

QUOTES FROM ORDER

Mr. Castleden quoted extracts from a recent order-in-council dealing with arrangements between Imperial Oil and the United States government.

Resources Minister Crerar said the arrangements covering oil exploration in the northwestern area could be discussed on a later item in his estimates.

Mr. Castleden said the item before the house covered $145,000 for exploration of oil resources, and Canada should be providing more to explore her northern resources herself.

Mr. Crerar said the $145,000 had no connection with developments in the northwestern areas.

"My friend has the matter all wrong in the first place," said the minister.

RESOURCE "ALIENATED"

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said a great Canadian resource was being "alienated" to the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Mr. Crerar said the federal government "has not spent a single dollar" on the Canol project.

"No, but the government has given away one of our resources," said Mr. Coldwell.

Mr. Crerar: "We are not in the habit of giving away our resources."

Mr. Coldwell: "No, but governments have been known to give them away."

Mr. Crerar said Canol could be discussed on a $10,000 item in the estimates which covered expenses of liaison officers in connection with the Alaska Highway and Canol projects.

The $145,000 item covered the exploration of other oil discoveries particularly in Saskatchewan and Alberta, Mr. Crerar said. It also covered the drilling of the Northern Alberta tar sands.

Canadian Schools Hold Observance Of Empire Day

OTTAWA, May 24.—(CP)—Yesterday was Empire Day in Canada, but probably the only persons who really were aware of its significance were school children. The day stems from a movement started in Britain about 45 years ago to have patriotic demonstrations in schools each May 24. But as Canada celebrated the birthday of Queen Victoria on that date, May 23 was adopted as the day on which most school teachers set aside a few minutes to describe the British Empire to pupils. Queen Victoria's birthday is not celebrated officially in Britain.

Rain Helps Check B.C. Forest Fires

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., May 24—(CP)—Heavy rain overnight drenched the eastern slopes of the Rockies in the Peace River block helping fire-fighters in their efforts to check the advance of more than 70 forest fires in that area. Showers were also reported on the west side of the mountains and considerable advance was made against blazes in the Fort Grahme area where a party of soldiers was assisting fire-fighters along the Akie river.

They Looped-the-Loop in a Halifax

M. R. SMITH · M. RAINVILLE · V. IRVINE · A. MAUGER

After a successful raid on Frankfurt, Sergt. Vern Irvine, Toronto pilot, was forced to take his huge four-engined aircraft into a loop to evade a German fighter. The Halifax had, luckily, discharged its bomb load when a Nazi night fighter attacked from dead astern and commenced firing at about 800 yards. The rear gunner, Sergt. Meamore "Sonny" Rainville, Montreal, was tossed about so violently by the Halifax's cork-screwing evasive action that he could not fire back. When the big plane looped he was "pinned" to the top of the turret. The navigator, FO. Art Mauger, Victoria, B.C., was seated at his table when he suddenly found himself and his instruments "floating up to the roof." The midupper gunner, Sergt. M. R. Smith of Star City, Sask., stayed in his turret during the loop though he was worried that the "bubble" might give under his weight and let him drop out. When the Halifax screamed down out of the loop the night fighter had disappeared. It had missed all shots and the crew was unscathed. It was their first operational flight together with the Alouette Squadron, R.C.A.F.

Consider Holiday On Victoria Day As Inappropriate

OTTAWA, May 24.—(CP)—State Secretary McLarty said yesterday in the Commons the government took the view it would be inappropriate to modify wartime regulations so that Victoria Day—today—would be observed as a holiday when "at any hour, so far as we know, word may come of the beginning of military operations on a gigantic scale in which Canadian forces will be heavily engaged."

In a statement on wartime statutory holidays Mr. McLarty listed New Year's Day, Good Friday, Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

Welfare Council President Tells Of Organization

certain limitations, due to competition or other factors, but there were no limitations to the benefits from associations in welfare work.

CHANGES IN WAR

Commenting on the fact that the depression had brought the Dominion government into welfare work through unemployment relief, Mr. Fisher went on to say that when the war started the government found that it had to deal with individual human beings.

The government then found that the Welfare Council had had some experience in such matters and could advise.

He said that while the Patriotic Fund had functioned in the Great War, it was felt that this time something better should be done for dependents. The Welfare Council had played its part in securing supplementary grants for dependents and also the establishment of the dependents' board of trustees.

He said that some years ago when it was proposed to bring British children to Canada, the Canadian Welfare Council was rather afraid of the success of the plan, believing it to be too sentimental. But when public sentiment appeared to favor the plan, the council played an active part in advising the Dominion government and outlining the basis of needs.

ADVISE COMMUNITIES

Welfare work tended to operate in the larger and work out to the smaller communities, and it was an obligation of the national organization to advise the different communities as to community work. The council has given advice as to the welfare organization here, he added.

Referring to social security and welfare work across the Dominion, Mr. Fisher expressed the belief that there would have to be some minimum measure of social security for all the people.

This, he said, would be of a government pattern but in its development the welfare council would have an important part to play. He pointed out that in the preparation of the Marsh social security report the only collaborator was Dr. George Davidson, executive director for the Welfare Council.

Mr. Fisher stressed the opportunity for citizens in different communities to pool their experiences, as he did not believe that care of individuals could be reduced to a government basis. He said that in the future there would be room for the direct personal activities of citizens of good will and he hoped the services of the national council would be found to be something worth while supporting.

Reports $31,177,409 Paid in Subsidies

OTTAWA, May 24—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said last night in the Commons a total of $31,177,409 had been paid in subsidies on milk and milk products, canning crops and berries in the last fiscal year. The anticipated requirements for 1944-45 were placed at $47,600,000 in the agriculture department war appropriation estimates before the house.

Believe Russia Will Recognize Polish Council

LONDON, May 24—(CP)—The Pro-Russian National Council of Poland has sent representatives to Moscow from German-occupied Polish territory, the Moscow radio reported today, raising the possibility that the Soviet Union may recognize the council as the legal government of Poland.

The wording of the announcement broadcast in the Russian language under sponsorship of the Union of Polish Patriots in the Soviet capital, suggested that the U.S.S.R. had given up virtually all hope of conciliation with the Polish government in London.

The development came amid revived efforts by the United States to bring together the Soviet and London Polish governments.

LONDON, May 24.—(CP)—Heavy shellfire from British and German [illegible] shook the starlit Straits of Dover for a half hour early today. Everybody "Buddy"

"Hi Ya, Pop!" Greeting Shocks British Fathers As Kiddies Arrive Home

BY SYDNEY GRUSON

A BRITISH PORT, May 24.—(CP)—More than 2,000 British women and children came back yesterday to the war-torn land they hadn't seen during four years of "exile" in Canada and the United States. Their arrival was something of a shock to many a husband and father.

Hundreds of the children, ranging in age from five to 17 years, were chewing gum as they came off the ship that had carried them across the Atlantic. Not a few greeted their fathers with: "Hi ya, Pop." They hailed everybody as "Buddy."

This was the biggest single shipload of evacuees so far to return to the homes they left in 1940 to escape German bombs. Many of the fathers had to be pointed out to their children.

MUST CHANGE IDEAS

"It will take the youngsters a year to readjust themselves," said one of the mothers. "They will have to reshuffle their ideas on lots of things."

A father said: "My daughter Mary was four months old when she went away. Now she is four years old and a Yankee. I have never heard anything like it before."

In the trunks of returning mothers there were tins of fruit, packages of cigarets, stockings, cosmetics and other luxury presents for friends.

The mothers were surprised that nobody here was short of anything but said the air raid damage was exactly as had been expected. "The papers have kept us well in touch with the major aspects of English life but we don't know much about the smaller things," said one.

One newspaper headline above its story of the returning evacuees said: "2,000 to Re-learn 'English'."

Nazi Commander In the Balkans Arrives in Sofia

LONDON, May 24.—(CP)—Field Marshal Gen. Maximilian Von Weichs, German commander in the Balkans, was reported by the Moscow radio last night to have arrived in Sofia to review Nazi troops in Bulgaria as tension mounted in Hitler's satellite countries.

Bulgaria was undergoing two-way pressure from Germany, which is seeking increased military aid, and from Russia, attempting to budge her from her lukewarm Axis alignment. But—although there were signs the government was shaking —few saw any hope the country could or would chance a revolt until Nazi military resources were even more greatly strained.

Gardiner Doubts Spoilage of Meat Large as Claimed

OTTAWA, May 24—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said last night in the Commons that he believed rumors of hundreds of thousands of pounds of meat being spoiled in storage developed from a single case in which 28,000 pounds of veal was spoiled.

Answering an inquiry by G. H. Castleden (C.C.F.-Yorkton) as to quantities of meat spoiled, Mr. Gardiner read an inspector's report on mouldy meat in one romo of a harbor cold storage plant at Quebec. The inspector found that most of the meat could be put in condition by treatment and only 20,000 pounds of a total of about 300,000 were completely spoiled.

An Unwanted Building

Plans for a two-storey concrete building to replace the Blowey-Henry furniture warehouse recently destroyed by fire have been dropped, it is reported, and permission is now sought to erect on the site a one-storey frame building with a stucco finish.

The fact that the new plans call for the elimination of one storey in the proposed re-erection does not make it any more acceptable to those who object to seeing the river area commercialized.

As has been said many times before, the river and its banks and flats make up one of the most remarkable scenic assets any city can possess. They are worth, literally, billions of dollars to Edmonton.

But the beautification of the river area depends upon keeping that area clear of commercial buildings. To permit even one commercial building to be erected or re-erected in that area simply postpones that much longer the realization of the river as a beautification asset.

Since this property has been used commercially for many years, the owners are entitled to a fair price for it. Nevertheless, with all due consideration to this fact, the city council will correctly interpret public opinion if it refuses permission for any building, whatever the structure, to be put up on that site.

World's Highway

Within a span of three days, two distinguished travelers have passed through Edmonton on the airways of the world.

Last Saturday, it is belatedly disclosed, Vice-President Henry Wallace of the United States stopped off at Edmonton on his way from Washington to China. On Monday, Mr. G. N. Zarubin, Soviet ambassador to Canada, rested in this city on his way from Moscow to Ottawa.

There is a great deal of talk about Edmonton being at the "crossroads of the world". Such phrases become common-place through repetition. And it is doubtful if any amount of theorizing and speculation can truly impress upon the imaginations of Edmonton people the magnitude of the position this city has begun to occupy in the schedules of world travel.

But concrete examples are different. They really convince. And it is not hard to picture in the mind, in the face of these concrete examples, the tremendous air traffic that will flow through this city when the end of the war removes restrictions on international travel. There will be a constant stream of merchants, tourists and diplomats through Edmonton to investigate and take advantage of the new national accords built up in the defence of common liberties.

The world's highway indeed runs past Edmonton's doorstep. The advantage Edmonton people take of that circumstance will rest entirely with themselves.

The 24th

The "24th" is the first of our summer holidays in Canada, and for that reason the most popular—provided the weather is fine. Because it comes early in the season it is liable to climatic disturbances peculiar to itself; occasionally Edmonton has to do its celebrating in doors, and draw consolation from knowing that a fall of soft wet snow is good for the crops. And occasionally also the "24th" provides a sizzling foretaste of what July and August will bring along.

In the background of all the holiday-making of course is the fact that this particular day commemorates the birth of Queen Victoria, during whose reign there came into existence that remarkable political institution which, for want of a more appropriate name, is called the British "empire". The quotation marks are in order, because it differs as widely as possible from any other "empire" the world has known.

The transition of significance from a birthday to Empire Day was therefore natural, and it is to the Empire, rather than the late Queen, that the serious thoughts and exercises of the day are devoted. Never more properly than at present, because the things for which the Allied nations are fighting are essentially the things the British Empire stands for and exemplifies.

If when the war is over the free nations of the world should want to adopt a common day on which to pay respect to the historic evolution of ordered liberty their choice must lie between the 24th of May and the 4th of July. It would not matter much which day they chose. For if Independence Day marks the birth of the United States, it also marks the beginning of a course of events which culminated in the British Commonwealth of free and sovereign nations.

Day Nurseries Again

The Edmonton city council takes a proper course in pressing the provincial government for complete details of the findings of the provincial advisory committee on day nurseries.

It will be remembered that the advisory committee split evenly on the matter of recommending immediate action, only the chairman providing the casting vote which lent the weight of the committee to the proposal that the matter be deferred for the present.

Now it appears that neither the majority of the committee nor the minority have prepared a formal written report. It is these reports which the city council wishes to see and study.

Quite apart from the fact that the bare majority, which recommended deferment, based its findings upon entirely fallacious evidence with regard to the need for day nurseries, the opinion of the minority has certainly not been given due emphasis. Since majority and minority groups were equal until the chairman threw his weight against action on day nurseries, the report of the committee represents, after all, only the personal opinion of the chairman.

In brief, the report, practically, is only a one-man report.

There is every reason, therefore, to examine the views of the minority as carefully as the provincial government has accepted the views of the bare majority or, in other words, the group which became a majority only through the action of the chairman.

It is this view the city council seeks to secure and study. There can be no doubt that an unprejudiced examination of all the facts, including the surveys which definitely established a need and demand for day nurseries in Edmonton, will justify the reopening and reconsideration of the whole mattcr.

Final figures show that Albertans subscribed more than $46,000,000 to the Sixth Victory Loan. That is $9,000,000 more than the minimum quota, and 10 per cent more than the total subscribed to the Fifth loan last fall. Congratulations are in order to all who had to do with conducting the sales campaign. They are not less due to all who were foresighted enough and financially able to buy one or more of the bonds.

—V—

The regulations have been relaxed and a businessman may now sell out, extend his floor space or move to another location without obtaining a permit from the prices board, and anyone who wants to start a new business may apply for the necessary papers. Immediately these easements will not mean all that they seem to mean, for goods of many kinds are still scarce and under controlled distribution. So extending a store or starting a new one is legal, but may not be any more possible for the time on that account.

Canteen System Unsatisfactory

Canadians Overseas Want Their Own Canadian Rations

By GRANT DEXTER

LONDON: We were walking along a country lane, somewhere in England, one night. The sky was overcast, the laneway rough. On either side a rhododendron hedge shut us in. Great oak trees, just breaking into leaf, branched over us.

The nightingales, as my friend put it, were just getting started together. There were: Cpl. Harold Hanstead, whose folks recently moved away from the city; Pte. Harry Silverberg, of 154 Alfred avenue; Lance-Cpl. R. McEvoy, of 222 Kennedy street; Pte. Van Dei, of 437 Notre Dame avenue; Cpl. Wesley Whitney, and Cpl. R. O. Picard, of 44 Victoria crescent, St. Vital. Other weekend visitors included Frank Luyten, of Manor, and Robert Dracas, of Edam, Sask. There was also a boy from Vegreville, who had worked in the legislature.

The lads were in excellent physical condition, and eager. They were starved for news from home. Like all good soldiers they had grouse. The worst of these, and it is common in the Canadian army here, had to do with the canteen system adopted by National Defence at Ottawa in co-operation with the British army. The canteens do not sell Canadian cigarettes and have all too few chocolate bars. The Canadian army draws British rations and as the tastes of Canadians differ widely from those of the British, the results sometimes are unsatisfactory. Canned herring, for example, evokes no cheers from the Canadian troops although it is reputed to be popular among the British.

The Canadians are well aware that the U.S. army draws U.S. rations — reputedly much better than British rations. This complaint is met with everywhere and it is fairly generally agreed that the Canadian authorities at Ottawa made a serious error in failing to joining in a common canteen arrangement. The army ration system, of course, is more complicated.

If you talk with Canadian officers, you are assured that the boys are getting plenty of cigarettes. They get parcels from home and there is some kind of an issue by the army authorities. The men, however, declare that some get parcels and some do not. The army issue is satisfactory as far as it goes but by no means meets the reasonable demand.

The change most desired is that Canadian cigarettes should be purchasable from the quartermasters. If shipments from home were stopped and cigarettes put on sale so that all who desired to have them would have equal opportunity this grievance would disappear. This, they said, is how the U.S. is doing it.

As for the statements of those who do not minimize the complaints as mere grousing, it was noticeable they came from officers of the higher ranks who, themselves, seemed to have plenty of cigarettes. The men was remarkable to observe with whit fortitude these higher officers met the need to meet the afflictions of their subordinates.

Conversation at the dinner party was intensely interesting. Chief interest attached to post-war re-establishment. One needed to be careful to avoid politics. The boys are intensely politically minded. They were proud of Canada—Their absence—and most of them had been four years away—had deepened and enriched their love of country. They know how good a job Canada has done in this war, on the home front as well as abroad.

Talk drifted around to why the soldiers boo politicians. Some of these lads had been present when Mr. King was boo-ed and they were unrepentant.

The explanation is interesting. Soldiers dislike politicians, particularly politicians who make grand inspection tours. On such occasions the boys have to polish up, march some distance to the inspection point and wait interminably. When, at last, the politician arrives, he ought not to expect to be cheered. The boys had nothing against Mr. King personally. They would boo any politician under similar circumstances. Politicians, they argued, should know better than to put soldiers to such bother.

Urges Election Calm

Henry Seidel Canby in Saturday Review of Literature

In books, in magazines, on the radio, in editorials, in the choice of news for featuring in the newspapers, every sensational statement on public affairs for the next six months will be concocted, edited, or caused by the approaching Presidential election. Look for wish fulfilment of the irritatingly repetitious in the discussion of everything from juvenile morality and the black market, to news from the Pacific and the propaganda of the U.W.I. Please remember that, for six months, every citizen with access to publicity will be in a more or less unconscious delirium, and that what he says or reports others as saying will be no more representative of such hallucance and judgment as he may possess, than a diatribe from a fever patient with a temperature of 104 degrees.

Suspect for the next few months all violent statement, suspect all news, and opinion which seem to indicate that the country is going to the dogs, that we are incapable of the peace, that our racial, social, and political problems are beyond our solving. United States after the war must either dominate the world, or roll up in a blanket and close its eyes. This is still a country of courage, energy, and widespread common sense. It is doing well in the war. It will do well in the peace, even if the millennium is still a thousand years away. The dangers that confront us as a nation are not as serious as the perils of the decade of the 1850's. It was the politicians then, and the extremists, and the crackpots which, as much as political and economic disunion, brought on a war which was far more disastrous to property and life than anything that has happened so far or that is likely to happen—a war from which we recovered into greatness.

Be from Missouri, my countrymen. Keep your hearts hot but your brains cool. Every kind of rag ion of everything from juvenile morality and the black market, to news from the Pacific and the propaganda of the U.W.I. Please remember that, for six months, every citizen with access to publicity will be in a more or less unconscious delirium, and that what he says or reports others as saying will be no more representative of such hallucance and judgment as he may possess, than a diatribe from a fever patient with a temperature of 104 degrees.

Be from Missouri, my countrymen. Keep your hearts hot but your brains cool. Every kind of rag is going to be waved before this election is over and called a flag to save the country. Names that have not yet been thunder are going to be applied to every neck stretched out in the public service. Charges now being formulated will be made upon evidence that in political peace times would be seen to be ridiculously inadequate. Many true things will be uttered not because they are true but because they will damage the enemy. The ship of state will be torpedoed, depth-bombed, dive-bombed, sabotaged, and called a dozen times a traitor, but it will float. And it is going to float a long while yet.

Let the heathen rage, says the Bible. It is not enough for the sensible man to deal with the crank who is now circularizing the voters, urging the resignation of the President, the appointment of Senator Nye in his place, and the reorganization of the country along the lines of Washington's Farewell Address (which he has never read) in recognition of the fact that the Axis powers have shown us no good will! But more subtle manifestations of the delirium of a Presidential election are not so easy to detect. Keep your shirts on while you read.

Airpower Still Unknown Force

Results of Bombing Hun Cities Are Yet To Be Revealed

By MARQUIS.CHILDS

WASHINGTON.—General Arnold is a blustery fighting man whose every statement arouses either admiration or anger. Just now General Arnold is in a state of some puzzlement over the condition of the last get that his bombers in England have been plastering day after day.

Germany has been hit with four times the tonnage of bombs as was ever unloaded on Britain. The damage done in England to morale and property, especially in April and May of 1941, was serious.

What about Germany then? So far as can be determined from intelligence reports, there is no weakening of the German will to fight.

No one, of course, can be sure. In October of 1918 the Allies were planning for at least another year of warfare. Perhaps behind the facade of propaganda Germany is ready to quit and yet we can't count on that. The evidence is all the other way.

The Germans have saved a part of their air force by the simple expedient of holding it back, hidden in industrial front, the battle front could not be long sustained.

One of the amazing things about Germany is the way in which they rebuild the damage done by our bombers. Their capacity for reconstruction has been a surprise to our military men. It's been necessary to keep hitting over and over again.

Airmen knew very well that Nazi planes will exact a toll in the invasion. Our fliers have proved over and over again that you can't keep an air force off a target if the force is big enough to take losses and still keep coming.

For all the massive weight of our air strength, German planes will get to the invasion flotilla. In the great air battle that will grow out of that attack, the last of the once great luftwaffe may be wrecked, but not before it inflicts casualties.

What puzzles General Arnold today is how the Germans can stand up under the punishment administered to them. A substantial number of German cities have been destroyed one-fourth or more, mostly more.

What if Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Washington, and say 20 or 25 other American cities were one-third or one-half destroyed? What if 10,000,000 Americans were homeless? What if two or three of our big airplane plants had been destroyed? And plants making essential parts and essential weapons?

General Arnold knows. We'd be in a very bad way. Without a constant stream of replacements from the industrial front, the battle front could not be long sustained.

One of the amazing things about Germany is the way in which they rebuild the damage done by our bombers. Their capacity for reconstruction has been a surprise to our military men. It's been necessary to keep hitting over and over again.

"I don't know what an air force can do," Arnold said at his press conference. "There never was an air force with the power that we can use against Germany today."

But in its present strength that air force has been in existence only three months. When invasion begins it would logically be switched from the strategic objective over Germany to a tactical objective in co-ordination with the ground forces. Perhaps three months, or four months, isn't enough for a real test.

Moreover, as airmen realize, the weapon is only in the beginning stage. The plane that can fly from Europe to America, drop a substantial bomb load and return to its base is not a dream. It's here.

The B-29 has a longer range and a greater carrying capacity than any other bomber in the world. Its performance is still an unknown. Finally turned loose, this high speed battleship of the stratosphere may revolutionize air warfare. Already extraordinary legends of the prowess of this super-bomber are circulating.

Then there's the field of the radio directed missile. While it's still under wraps, it's no H. G. Wells fantasy. It's for tomorrow or day after tomorrow.

Anyone who says that airpower has been overrated will be proved later to have talked too soon. The returns aren't in yet.

Maligned?

Editor, Bulletin: It is with feelings of deepest concern that I write this letter to your paper; concern, first, regarding a teacher, who is being maligned, and secondly for all members of the teaching profession.

This teacher has been on our staff for some sixteen years and her conscientious teaching and cultural value to our community cannot be overestimated. This same teacher was on the staff of Scona high school for many years and during all that time no delegation was sent to the board regarding her work. Two of my children studied French under her and we found no occasion to find fault with their progress. This feeling I know was general.

We all recognize the influence parents have over children and its reaction in the class room. Had these parents been in sympathy with the teacher there would have been no question regarding the cause of their lack of progress. One of the parents did not consider the inspector's report worth while. What does the inspector stand for if his qualifications are not to be considered? His report showed her work to be of the highest order and in keeping with her scholarship. This was to be expected, for on occasions demanding high academic standing her students have held their own with all competitors. It was just last year that one of them won the scholarship in French for the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Surely our school board of intelligent men would never allow one of their staff, who has given such long and efficient service, to be dismissed because of a few undisciplined children.

In these days of scarcity of experienced teachers for our high schools is it wise, because of prejudice to allow our academic and cultural standards to fall? Perhaps occasions similar to the one under review are the answer to the teacher shortage and the lack of desire shown by young people to make teaching their life work.

Game Branch

Editor, Bulletin: I have been a fur dealer for 37 years, and a fur rancher for 22 years in this province. In this time I have raised mink, fox and other animals extensively, and I therefore consider myself as having some knowledge of fur-bearing animals.

I have noted that the Game Branch is not giving the best results owing to the fact that certain people have little or little knowledge of fur-bearing animals and more of forestry. They would therefore be more at home in the latter branch, instead of the Game Branch.

The department is at present issuing licenses to men going out as fur buyers who had no license, no income tax, and in some instances no bond, and are not even citizens of this country.

I, myself, have three fur dealer's licenses to pay, as Bleiler, and I have noticed that there are certain fur buyers who were around for 30 days before the season opened and who are still around now that the season has been closed for over three weeks. They appear to be getting away with illegal purchases of fur outside of the proper period. The extended killing of rats after the season's close, and the destroying of female rats will mean that the rat industry will be killed within the next year or two in the area between the Saskatchewan and Athabasca rivers if this situation is allowed to continue.

I earnestly hope and trust that the minister of lands and mines will see fit to take notice of the numerous complaints that have been made, and that he will finally decide to put in charge of the Game Branch a man thoroughly familiar with the protecting of fur-bearing animals.

Banking System

Editor, Bulletin: The more publicity that is given to the operation of our banking system the more plain it becomes that the so-called science of banking is based on pure bunkum. Mr. Towgs is a worthy defendent of such a system because he can say the most rankly indefensible things and make them bear a semblance of reason.

For instance he admits that all bank notes in circulation are a bank liability and yet they can charge interest for them. No other body in existence can charge interest on its liabilities. That is why the banks prosper when all other business and farming is going into bankruptcy. Good word that it means "ruptured by the banks.")

If, however, a bank is called upon to reduce its liability and redeem its debt they will be able to do it—made by itself. If the creditor gets insistent and demands redemption then the banker says to go to the farmer or industry and buy yourself $10.00 worth of goods and that the only way that bill can be redeemed. This is the backhanded kind of bookkeeping that has got us into debt and will leave us there unless we wake up and demand an honest system of accounting which reflects the people's assets as being assets and not as debts owing to the financial system as at present.

I will tell us before the war that Canada was dependent upon outside sources for its capital, especially Britain or the United States.

Now with the war going full blast we can finance ourselves and lend billions to Britain and give away billions of dollars worth of goods as well. It's the people aided by power production who are producing these things and not the banks so why should we owe any debt to them?

Poverty

Editor Bulletin: Did Jesus not feed his people before speaking to them? Did he not heal them? Did he charge a price? The relationship of body and mind was recognized. How you people can face your Maker from day to day and not preach the fundamental fact that this is so, and to realize that only Christianity, illiteracy (the product of poverty) must be non-existent.

I am quite sure the entire question of poverty and illiteracy, or abundance and Christianity now hang in the balance, and all this under result of the God-given materials to distribute and make healthy the peoples and not for exploitation and the mortgaging of the lives of our children together with their children. With poverty and illiteracy the implications of God and material will be recognized.

Judas sold Jesus out, so will we sell each other out so long as we use money, as long as there is a mortgage on the church and a collection plate in the church. May the Lord have mercy on our souls.

I would appreciate comment from anyone.

Bible Best Seller

Editor, Bulletin: The whole Bible has been translated into 184 languages. This does not include the parts which have been published in 1062 different tongues. During 1943 four new translations have seen the war years: Walamo (Ethiopian) Yipounou and Yisangou (French Equatorial Africa), Gunwinggu (N. Australia). Another proof that the Bible is still the best seller.

Newsprint to U.S.A.

From the Hamilton Spectator

There has been a good deal of discussion in the United States over the shortage of newsprint, and a tendency to accuse the Canadian authorities and Canadian manufacturers of not doing all they could to relieve the situation. Lest ignorance of the facts should become a cause of friction between United States consumers and the Canadian newsprint manufacturers which might conceivably develop, certain the thought—to the public of both countries, we quote the following statistics which appear in a brochure, Newsprint Supply at Wartime, recently published by the Newsprint Association of Canada:

Canadian Newsprint Deliveries
Thousand tons omitted

Year To	U.S.	Canada	Others	Total
1935-39 average	2,286	192	525	3,003
1940	2,584	184	658	3,426
1941	2,770	197	488	3,455
1942	2,611	205	193	3,209
1943	2,580	183	267	3,010
1944	2,400	185	480	3,035
1940-44 average	2,623	192	412	3,229

U.S. Newsprint Supply and Sources
Thousand tons; 000 omitted

Year	From Canada	From U.S.	Others	Total
1935-39 average	2,286	804	360	3,450
1940	2,584	898	181	3,773
1941	2,770	895	220	3,885
1942	2,611	933	196	3,940
1943	2,580	789	131	3,499
1944	2,400	720	144	3,264
1940-44 average	2,623	887	174	3,685

It will be noted that, including 1944, Canada will have supplied the United States with an average of 2,625,000 tons per annum during the five war years, as compared with an average of 2,286,000 tons during the five years preceding the war, which represents an average increase of 339,000 tons per annum. In the meanwhile, the United States' supplies from their own mills have decreased by an average of 17,000 tons per annum.

The truth is that the Canadian mills have, under most difficult conditions, done a monumental job in helping the American newspapers make up deficiencies in their supplies, resulting from the failure of foreign competitors of the Canadian mills to make deliveries, and Canadian publishers and public have been rationed severely to help the situation out.

Air Power

Outmoded Weapons of War

By Maj. A. P. de Seversky

In the military sense, victory is not without serious hazards for the victorious countries. Nations that have won wars are always tempted to glorify the methods and weapons which brought success, and therefore to hold on to them long after they have become outmoded.

It is no accident that after the first World War the losing side, Germany, turned its thoughts to new weapons and new methods. Having lost by the old methods, it naturally looked for innovations.

Victorious France, on the other hand, glorified the trench. The Maginot Line, which is really the trench idea carried to the extreme, stands as a memorial to that mistake. Also, the military leaders in France, having delivered the goods, came out of the war with a terrific popular prestige. Those who dared question their Maginot Line assumptions—General de Gaulle, for instance—were ignored and ridiculed.

de Seversky

Already there are signs that the United States, which will certainly come out as winner in the present struggle, may repeat this historical pattern. Because the land-and-air team in Europe, the land-sea-and-air team in the Pacific, may win the war, there is the danger that these strategies will be accepted as permanent and beyond criticism. The leaders responsible for these strategies, by the same token, will possess the prestige to prevent free thinking and planning in line with the technological facts of tomorrow rather than those of yesterday.

Certain of our present weapons and tactics are already outlived. We stick to them partly because we are too deeply committed to make changes, and partly through inertia or, as some put it, the fear of "gambling with new ideas."

WE SHALL WIN

We shall win the war notwithstanding, because of our great resources in materials and manpower and our ability to absorb staggering losses. Overwhelming quantity is often a cure for failures in other directions. The enemy fortunately also makes mistakes and that too helps to make up the balance.

My point is that a victory does not necessarily mean that the new methods used to attain it are valid everywhere for all time. Often victories are won despite fallacious means. And in any case, the part of national wisdom is to leave ourselves mentally free to study the facts and to provide unrestricted scope for the technological realities of tomorrow.

No such freedom is possible unless our military structure of the future is saved from domination by any one arm or form of military forces. From this point of view the unyielding attitude of certain Navy leaders in the matter of retaining air power to develop its full strength on an autonomous basis seems to me truly alarming. Now that Mr. Forrestal, who has been the spokesman for the most conservative naval views, is Secretary of the Navy, the problem is even more serious.

In Europe, air power is delivering stunning blows to the enemy. In the nature of the case we cannot know as yet whether these blows are powerful enough by themselves to shatter the enemy's will and capacity to resist. But there is the possibility, devoutly to be hoped for, that these blows have softened the enemy to such a degree that soon after the great invasion begins the German resistance may crack, then collapse.

If that happens, the surface invasion, rather than the decisive air strategy that preceded, will seem to have attained the victory. The proponents of old-style surface strategy, rather than air strategy, will seem outwardly to have been right. Surface strategists will be fortified in their discounting and misunderstanding of air power, and that would bode ill for the future.

The role of air power in this war must be understood if we are to make full use of aeronautical possibilities for our national security in the years ahead, regardless what the finale of this drama should be. In judging the job done by strategic aviation in the Battle of Germany, whatever the next few months may bring, certain vital facts should be remembered:

INADEQUATE AIR POWER

1. We entered the war with inadequate air power, and with airplanes conceived and built for tactical rather than strategic use.

2. We channeled our resources and manpower overwhelmingly into surface weapons, giving aviation an increasing but always minor share.

3. We diverted the major portion of our aviation potential to tactical auxiliary and transport uses all over the world in support of Army and Navy strategies, leaving only an insignificant fraction for true aerial strategic action.

4. When finally we came around to using air power rightly in its own sphere, we had three counts against us. The first was our lateness, which gave the enemy valuable years in which to prepare its aerial defences. The second was that we had at our disposal a strategic force far smaller than we needed and than we could have provided, had the views of airmen been heeded. The third was that we failed to make the fullest use

System of Paying Premiums on Hogs Said Satisfactory

OTTAWA, May 24.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said last night in the Commons that no complaints had yet been received against the government's system of paying premiums on hogs.

Answering E. E. Perley (P.C., Qu'Appelle), Mr. Gardiner said the new system was not in full operation until last month.

Under the system, the government pays a premium of $3 on grade "A" hogs and $2 on grade "B." Previously packing plants paid a premium of $4 on select hogs, said Mr. Gardiner.

The minister said he believed the grading system was satisfactory throughout Canada. The grading was done by government inspectors.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

BIGGEST event on the local sports calendar for Victoria Day is the track and field meet which No. 4 I.T.S. is holding at Varsity Stadium this afternoon. Starting time is 1:30 o'clock and the public is invited. It is "for free" too.

The fact that entries total 215 as announced last night by FO. J. C. (Jake) Jamieson, sports officer, indicates the size of the meet and makes the affair an athletic event of unusual importance. Six heats in a 100-yard dash, five in the 220 and particularly three in the 440 are far from common. There are 10 teams competing in the tug-of-war.

Arrows are billed to play Dodgers at Renfrew Park tonight in the senior ball fixture postponed from Tuesday, unless the Weather Man puts on another act. A fastball doubleheader is scheduled for Kingsway. Golf will draw its devotees to the fairways and tennis will claim its share of attention. Lawn bowling gets underway officially today.

GOLF WIZARD IN ENGLAND

BOBBY JONES is in England—the scene of his greatest golf triumphs. But he isn't there to play golf this time. He's Lieutenant-Colonel Bobby Jones now—an intelligence officer for a fighter wing. And he helps plan the missions that pace the way for D-day.

Jones won't talk about himself, according to enquiring reporters. He says he's just another cog in the wheel that's grinding down the Nazis.

And golf? The man who took 13 major American and British titles isn't playing any—claims he has no time. But he's looking forward to getting back to Atlanta when the war is over, and putting in a few more rounds.

HERE AND THERE . . .

THE acquiring by Detroit Red Wings of the Chin brothers, Chinese hockey trio of Lucknow, Ont., has all the markings of a very deft stroke of business from the fan-appeal standpoint. And certainly Wings will have no excuse for not playing Chins-up hockey from now on.

When it comes to jumbo baseball scores, that 28-0 spread between Milwaukee and Toledo in yesterday's Association session would appear to be in a fair way to receive recognition of some sort—recalling too, that this circuit is supposed to be playing class AA ball.

Copies of the program which the Highland Games Association is staging at South Side Athletic Grounds on Saturday, June 3, have just been received from E. A. Myles, secretary-treasurer. They show officials are intent on providing a varied entertainment for patrons of this annual affair. There are 17 piping and dancing and 18 athletic events. Four cycle races are also included.

Organized Ball Adds Contribution to Allies' Invasion Jitters Propaganda

D-Day Ceremonies Planned for Majors

International Will Cancel All Fixtures

By HAROLD CLASSEN

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP) — Major league and Pacific Coast League baseball parks will be kept open on D-day but International League plants will shut down for the day at the announcement that the Allies have begun their invasion of Europe, the Associated Press learned Tuesday.

No decisions have been reached in the Southern Association and American Association.

While both the big leagues will play on D-day their games will be marked with simple, brief ceremonies.

"I have suggested to the National League clubs," said President Ford Frick, "that if the announcement of the invasion is received just prior to a game or while play is on that all persons in the park pause for silent prayer and the playing of the national anthem."

William Harridge, president of the American League, said in Chicago he would issue a similar suggestion. Commissioner K. M. Landis said "That an appropriate ceremony should be held and I'm open for suggestions what to do—but as far as I know churches, theatres, banks, department stores all will be open on invasion day and I don't see why baseball should shut down for the day."

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, disagrees with the other baseball officials.

"I have two sons over there. When the invasion is announced I won't have much interest in baseball. I'm going to church and then home and I believe a lot of other people will feel that way. I am suggesting to my clubs that they postpone the game if the announcement comes early enough, suspend the contest if word comes after play has started."

Giant Fielder Misses Fly

Error in Last Half of Ninth Gives Brooklyn 3-2 Victory

BROOKLYN, May 24.—(AP)—Johnny Rucker's muff of Lloyd Waner's fly ball after colliding with Charley Mead gave Brooklyn two runs in the last of the ninth inning and a 3-2 victory over the New York Giants Tuesday night. A crowd of 22,145 turned out for the first game in the Metropolitan area since 1941.

Pinch-runner Hal Gregg and Frenchy Bordagaray romped home when Rucker was unable to hold the ball and was charged with a two-base error.

Bill Voiselle held the Dodgers in check the rest of the way and had walked off the hill with an apparent victory when Waner lofted the short fly to right centre.

Clubs Only Conditioning

What Has Happened to Date No Criterion, Says McCarthy

By JOE McCARTHY
Manager of Yankees

NEW YORK, May 24.—What the clubs have done to date—winning or loaing—is no criterion. Because inclement weather permitted so little spring training they are not yet in condition.

I missed the first three weeks due to illness, but would have no opinion as to the strength and weaknesses of the opposition even had I been around. Clubs must be in something approaching full stride in order for anybody to appraise them fairly.

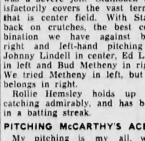

The Yankees are doing the best they can, with Nick Etten the big gun. The large first baseman with the sit-down stance at the plate certainly got off on the right foot with a batting average of .355.

Any club, even the Yankees, would feel the loss of a Joe Gordon, but George Stirnweiss at second base is playing the kind of ball I predicted he would. Snuffy is probably the fastest man in baseball. He has yet to be thrown out on an attempted steal.

YANKEES MISS CROSETTI

Don Savage is a highly satisfactory replacement for Bill Johnson at third base, and is a typical Yankee in that he swats a long ball. Naturally, we would like to have a solid man like Frank Crosetti at shortatop, but young Mike Milosevich, up from Kansas City, is doing well in the field.

The Yankees may have something in the nature of an outfield problem, but I intend to stand pat. After all, there isn't much else you can do these days.

Geo. Stirnweiss Hank Borowy

Tuck Stainback fracturing his ankle and being out for a month was a severe jolt. Stainback satisfactorily covers the vast terrain that is center field. With Stainback on crutches, the best combination we have against both right and left-hand pitching is Johnny Lindell in center, Ed Levy in left and Bud Metheny in right. We tried Metheny in left, but he belongs in right.

Rollie Hemsley holds up the catching admirably, and has been in a batting streak.

PITCHING McCARTHY'S ACE

My pitching is my ace, with Hank Borowy taking Spud Chandler's place as the No. 1 man.

Then there are Tiny Bonham, Atley Donald, Bill Zuber and Walt Dubiel, and the starters are rounded out by an accomplished left-hander, Joe Page. Steve Roser, Jim Turner and Al Lyons are willing relief workers. Dubiel, six-feet, 190, has the biggest hands in the game, and they helped him bag 16 games and turn in an earned run average of 2.02 for Newark. Page, who out-measures Dubiel physically, won 14 for the Bears.

Joe McCarthy thinks things out.

Yankee Stadium is without lights, but it has been proven that people will attend ball games on their afternoons off. The arcs will help financially clubs having them, especially minor league outfits.

The American League race will remain tight when the clubs attain the peak of playing condition.

Meanwhile, the Yankees are winning some games, and that happens to be the main idea.

Baksi to Tangle With Lee Savold On Friday Night

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—The Bearded Battler of Madame Bey's—that's what they're calling Joe Baksi, the former miner from Kumpmont, Pa., as he preps for Friday night's 12-round heavyweight scrap with Lee Savold in Madison Square Garden.

Joe, although only 22, has raised quite a crop of whiskers during the three-week grind of road and ring work. He plans to shave Wednesday.

Baksi is training at Madame Bey's famed fisticuff resort near Chatham, N.J.

Madame Bey, widow of a former attache of the Turkish embassy, died a year ago, and since then the camp, situated in Jersey's rolling hills, has been in the hands of Ehsan Karadag, a Persian.

Although Baksi, after a sensational victory over Tami Mauriello in his first garden bout, dropped a close verdict to Savold in their former meeting, the bearded boy said he was confident he'd win over the Paterson, N.J., Adonis this time.

Calumet Farm And Ben Jones Are Ruling Turf

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, May 24.—Calumet Farm bagging $160,000 in eight days is the greatest money-winning feat in the long history of racing. Pensive took the Kentucky Derby and The Preakness, Sun Again the Dixie Handicap and Twilight Tear the Pimlico Oaks. With the season just getting under way, Warren Wright's devil's red and blue has accounted for $250,000, more than half of its own earning record of $475,001, established when Plain Ben Jones put the one-eyed blinker on Whirlaway in 1941. Calumet will have to bump into a tremendous lot of trouble not to up the high water mark.

The Dwyer brothers were terrific around the turn of the century with Bramble, Luke Blackburn, Hindoo, Miss Woodford and some more. James R. Keene came along to be a rival. Sam C. Kildreth didn't do so badly on his own, and when he hooked up with Harry F. Sinclair the Rancocas Stable came closer than any other to keeping the two more important numbers.

EARNED $438,849 IN '23

In 1923, for example, the whitehooded Zev and others earned $438,849, which was the maximum until Whirlaway started running straight for Ben Jones. Harry Payne and Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney had memorable runs. Brookmeade cleaned up with Cavalcade, High Quest and additional high-rollers in 1934. Young Alfred Vanderbilt had his fling as Discovery got around the country in 35, and you know the story of Charles S. Howard, Seabiscuit, Kayak II and Santa Anita.

Never has there been a string with a grip on the entire program however, as tight as the one now held by fashionable Calumet.

Off his performances in the Derby and the Preakness, handsome Pensive easily could have a leglock on the $50,000-added Belmont Stakes at a mile-and-a-half June 3.

MAR-KELL FINE MARE

No handicap horse can be rated ahead of Sun Again and Mar-Kell is as fine a racing mare as there is in the land. Rich three-year-old filly events seem at the mercy of Twilight Tear, which Conn McCreary and others in position to judge rate superior to Pensive. And Miss Keeneland ranks right on Twilight Tear's heels.

Following the running of the Belmont Stakes, Trainer Jones will give much more attention to a beautifully-bred group of two-year-olds. It is no secret that he believes he has highly promising youngsters in Full Stride, Hail Victory, No Blues, Coast-A-Bit, Battle Fire and Chesty, to name a half dozen.

After taking a whack at the many important stakes at Belmont, the Calumet parade champions will go to Chicago's Arlington-Washington Park show to cut in on a series of the richest stake events ever staged at one continuous meeting.

National Holds Edge

Even Money Starting Hurler Will Go Full Route of Game

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—It's even money a starting pitcher will finish his game in the major leagues this season with the National today sporting a slight edge on the American in number of complete games hurled.

Of 226 flingers to face the firing line in the senior loop, 112 of just a shade under 50 per cent have tossed the entire nine innings. The American total of 110 finishers in 238 starters averages four percentage points lower.

Mound records for the first fifth of the 1944 campaign fail to reveal any marked upswing in shutouts despite the epidemic of low-hit games. The two leagues total only 36 whitewash jobs so far as compared to 200 for the entire season last year. Here the National has a wide edge with 22 blankings to 14 in the American.

As the clubs enter their second intersectional series today in the American League's western towns and the National's east, the ace "routers" are Bucky Walters of Cincinnati with seven complete games in seven tries and Rip Sewell of Pittsburgh with six for six.

Other leaders with their records are Jim Tobin of Boston and Paul (Dizzy) Trout of Detroit, each seven for eight, Max Lanier of the Cards, (six for seven) and Hank Borowy of the Yanks (five for six).

Five Strikeouts By Carl Hubbell Was Eye-Popper

By HORACE STONEHAM
President New York Giants

CARL HUBBELL'S phenomenal pitching in the first two innings of the All-Star game of 1934 at the Polo Grounds made my eyes pop out.

I felt a qualm of apprehension as Babe Ruth waddled to the plate with Lou Gehrig on deck and Jimmy Foxx picking out his favorite stick. To Ol' Square Pants took a hitch in his belt. Sinker one. Two more and Ruth struck out. Gehrig followed suit. The great Foxx, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin, renowned hitters, crashed the ambient air and went down, one-two-three via the strike-out route.

Five of the greatest hitters in the American League—of all time—all in a row, fanned by the Old Meal Ticket.

Sandlot Meeting At Mount Glen Y

The West End division of the City Sandlot Baseball League will meet on Monday evening, May 29 at the Mount Glen Y.M.C.A. in the Westmount Community League building on 127 street near 110 avenue for the purpose of organizing the division in both the midget and juvenile sections.

All teams wishing to enter may do so at this meeting. One adult and one boy representative should be present from each team. Knothole Club passes to the Renfrew Park baseball games will be given out to the teams entering at this meeting.

Calumet richly deserves its success.

Like the Yankees and Cardinals, Warren Wright breeds his own.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

NEW YORK, May 24.—Wrathful Lippy Durocher should have reached the "Berling Pernt" last night at Ebbets Field when he trotted out his seventh place Dodgers for their first home display of new satin uniforms before critical Brooklynites and scornful Giant fans.

The situation was pregnant with possibilities of "moider."

Already Manager Durocher is so enraged that he makes with the eyes, looking for that tree that grows in Brooklyn, on which he might hang some of his "Bums" who won only four while losing 10 games in the west as they tumbled.

The little Lord Fauntleroy uniforms—the satin pyjamas designed by Branch Rickey for night games—would be bad enough to parade before boisterous Brooklynites, even if the team were in first place. But to sheath t-h-i-s floundering crew with white satin, with Alice Blue pipings, is like "askin' fer it" from the fans, already disgusted with the team's putrid performances—dropped fly balls, sloppy infielding and blown leads.

OPPOSITION WAS GIANTS

AS if to garnish the acrid affair with thistles, this fashion debut had to be made at a game in which the opposition was none other than the Giants, those arch-rivals who are accompanied by thousands of jeering New Yorkers. The total crowd was 22,145.

A fine kettle of flounders, indeed, for dandy Durocher, who is incensed at the lackadaisical efforts of his so-called athletes that he promised, or threatened to return to the field and personally take over the shortstop berth. This despite a scarcely healed right thumb that he broke in training, and despite the necessity of signing a player-manager contract.

In high dudgeon, Durocher declared Monday night that shortstop Bill Hart will be benched. Some experts fear Hart may be strangled under the stands; Durocher is that sore at him. The "Lip," one of the great infielding shortstops of his day, almost frothed at the mouth when he talked of Hart.

HAVE SPECIAL CLASS

DUROCHER said, "I could go out there and shove my hands into my pockets and just stand there and be more help to the team than Hart. And don't tell me I ought to leave him there because he's the best I got. At least, I can catch a fly ball."

Hart was ordered to attend a special "kindergarden class" at Ebbet's Field yesterday, along with several other tongue-lashed Dodgers that included even big Howie Schultz, hard-hitting first baseman. This special session was not to be confused with batting practice. The offending athletes were to be taken thoroughly in hand, with gestures, how to make plays that they should have learned in high school or on the sand lots.

Outfielder Dixie Walker and Third Baseman Frenchy Bordagaray were the only regulars not ripped apart by smarting Leo, as he made ready for last night's welcome home—for last night's pajama parade—as he approached the "Berling Pernt."

Red Wings Sign Chin Brothers

STRATFORD, Ont., May 24—(CP)—Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League yesterday signed the three Chin brothers of nearby Lucknow and they will report for fall training in October. The brothers, whose parents were born in China, were a high-scoring trio as a forward line with Lucknow Maple Leafs in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association juvenile series.

William Chin, 17, was born in Newmarket, Ont., while Albert, 16, was born in Hong Kong while his parents were visiting their native land. George, 15, was born in Lucknow.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS

TORONTO, May 24.—(CP)—They say that coming events cast their shadows before, so it may well be the phenomenal success of racing in the United States is a happy omen for the Canadian racing season. At any rate, opening of the eastern Canada circuits at Woodbine in Toronto showed the customers are no end interested, both in the races themselves and in the betting.

The story was the same in Calgary when the western circuit opened recently with attendance and parimutuel figures showing substantial boosts. With all the war-promoted loose money around and Finance Minister Ilsley expected to ease taxation somewhat for the bettors in the lower or $2 ticket brackets, parimutuel machines may well jangle up new records this year.

Even if record heights aren't scaled, everybody probably will be very happy about the whole thing, with the jockeys getting insurance benefits, the grooms more exercise money, and higher purses in some cases to sooth the owners.

Incidentally:

It's the same old ditty out on the west coast as far as lacrosse is concerned. New Westminster Salmonbellies, Dominion champs, started the season off in their accustomed style by trouncing Army Hut in the opener.

Bill Durnan is as stingy with the batters in a softball game as he was with hopeful scorers in the N.H.L. last winter. He fanned 19 men as the Montreal Canadiens diamond outfit clipped an R.C.A.F. team recently.

Edmonton was the only important Canadian city without racing last summer, but that's been corrected. A 10-day meet will be held during August in the Alberta capital.

Softball is looking up in Saint John, N.B., and promoters of a six-team league are hoping for one of the best seasons on record. . . . St. Catharines, Ont., always a hotbed of lacrosse, is lagging this year with senior lacrosse in the doubtful stage. The good folk of St. Kitts won't even know what's in store for them until a meeting and election of officers is held the end of the month. . . . Baseball prospects are excellent in Windsor, Ont., this summer and Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star says there are several fancy professional prospects among the youngsters there. He predicts several may get offers from the pro loops before the summer is out.

Armstrong Plans Continue Boxing

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong says there's nothing to rumors of his retirement.

Hammerin' Henry, only man in fight history to hold three championships at the same time, figures to be a prominent guy in the welterweight picture.

"I'm ready for the best in my class," Henry said Tuesday, "and I know there'll be no setups where I'm concerned. All the youngsters want a crack at me."

Armstrong stopped Aaron Perry, Washington hopeful, in six rounds Monday night.

Henry, now in his 30's, has been in more than 300 fights.

Frank Mancuso Claims Chicago Toughest Team

NEW YORK, May 22—(BUP)—Frank Mancuso of the St. Louis Browns, luckiest man in baseball, says: "Watch out for those Chicago White Sox. They're the toughest team we've met; and we've met them all."

Big Frank, who is a catcher—just like his older brother Gus Mancuso of the Giants—is the luckiest guy in the game, because he's alive by a seeming "miracle" after a wrong way jump of 750 feet as a paratrooper.

Frank, who packs 200 pounds of eager brawn on a six foot chassis, was a second lieutenant in the tank destroyers' corps at Camp Hood Tex. He transferred to the parachute troops at Fort Benning, Ga., knowing that such a shift might get him overseas in a hurry. On his fifth jump at Fort Benning, his eagerness to lead his men in a jump directly at a target beneath caused him to take off head first, instead of feet first. His left leg became entangled in the lines of his parachute. Luckily his right leg missed the other shrouds.

HIS OWN MISTAKE

"The parachute opened okay," Frank says, "but I made a one point landing on my head, with my leg in the air. I don't remember much about that landing because I was practically knocked out when the chute opened—with my body taking the shock the wrong way. My left knee was pulled out of joint, and my back injured, the cartillage being knocked out from between three or four vertebrae of my lower spine. I was in a hospital five months before given my discharge last February.

"I was hurt through my own mistake; and you don't make many mistakes with parachutes—and live. If my right leg had got tangled, too, I wouldn't be here to tell the story. All the boys in my outfit said I was a lucky son of a gun; and they weren't kidding."

Mancuso's spinal injuries left him unfit for army duty, but he still can play baseball—if he doesn't sit down too long. As long as he's active, or lying down, he's all right; but five minutes on a chair or bench causes such back pains that he has to get up and move around.

Frank, after praising the Browns and their prospects, said: "The toughest outfit we've met are the White Sox. That's right; they look a lot tougher than the Yankees. Washington has a fine club, too, but I figure that the rest of the league will get wise to those Senator pitchers before the season is half over—and start to mow them down. But the White Sox have the balance—good pitching, a fine infield, an adequate outfield, excellent catching and good power. They're the most dangerous club in the league today."

This is Frank's first full season as a regular player in the majors. He was up with the Giants in '39, but was used only as a bull pen catcher for the entire season. Returning to the minors, he came up to the White Sox from San Antonio of the Texas League, late in the '42 season—just before he went into the army.

Mancuso concluded, "I read the papers every day, and look for the names of my buddies and my outfit who are over there fighting. Sometimes it makes me awful sad to realize that I can't be over there with them. Then I remember that maybe fate didn't mean for me to go over—and that I'm mighty lucky to be alive. So I play the hardest I can for baseball, which is doing a lot of good on the home front."

Yankees Sign School Pitcher

SAN JOSE, Calif., May 24.—(AP)—Leo Righetti, 17-year-old local prep school boy who pitched a no-hit no-run baseball game last Saturday, became the property of the New York Yankees Tuesday. He was signed to a contract of the Yankees' farm club, Newark, and will report to the International League team after his school term closes the middle of June.

Racing Strip Heavy

Nine Western Horses Ready For Today's Alberta Derby

By LOU DAVIES

CALGARY, May 24.—The 14th running of the $1,000 added Alberta Derby has nine western bred three-year-olds named to go the seven furlongs this afternoon out of the 47 original entries when the race closed January 1, 1942.

A heavy racing strip will prevail for the running and the race is a wide open one. The public choice will likely be Pagan Star, unbeaten in his three-year-old career and in two starts has not been pressed. Alf Tarn's Divulge has not won here as yet but will still come in for plenty of support and most fans are convinced that the filly has yet to run her best race.

The problem child of the race is Bragg Creek, owned by Jim Jackson of Winnipeg. No one knows just how good this colt really is. He did not start as a two-year-old and has won his only two races this year. There is no doubt that he lacks racing experience despite the two wins. It is certain that the seven furlongs will not be beyond his ability as on each occasion he has come from behind to win.

Galline defeated Divulge in a bitterly fought stretch battle last week and she will have to be taken into consideration.

Tuesday's featured handicap went to the good sprinter, Sweep Lad. The sweepster colt was hardly out of a gallop to defeat Chinook Pride and Noble King. He was well played by the hunters and returned only $2.95.

A daily double of $24.55 resulted after Annoyed had come off the pace through the stretch of the opening race and Tellus was the easy winner of the second.

In the seventh Dutch Defender won by a wide margin with Judge Fay in second position. The Quinella on the pair paid $19.40.

Over 300 horses will leave Calgary for Winnipeg Wednesday evening for the meetings which open at Polo Park Saturday afternoon.

Kerry Lass Wins Woodbine Feature

TORONTO, May 24. — (CP) — Kerry Lass, four-year-old English-bred filly flashed to a surprise first in the fifth and feature race at Woodbine Park yesterday.

Sharing honors was Jockey Chris Rogers, who not only was astride Kerry Lass, but was also in the driver's seat on the winners Maginot Line in the second race and Swanie Gal in the third.

Kerry Lass paid $31 for a $2 straight ticket; Maginot Line, owned by Dr. L. H. Appleby of Vancouver paid $41.20 and Swanie Gal, $9.20.

Maginot Line, conqueror of Ten To Ace in the Canadian Derby at Winnipeg in 1942, provided a major upset in the second event and combined with Echo Beach, winner of the first, to form a $396.35 Daily Double.

Durocher Signs A New Contract

BROOKLYN, May 24.—(AP)—Leo Durocher, 38-year-old manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, signed a new contract Tuesday as a player-manager. Under the old contract he was a bench manager.

Dissatisfaction with available infield material prompted Leo to restore himself to the ranks of active players.

Charles O. Tanney, president of the Edmonton Cosmopolitan Club, is pictured above presenting a cheque for $1,460.70 to Mrs. John L. Stride, daughter of E. James Bennett (centre), Toronto. Mr. Bennett is chairman of the Dominion Committee of the Overseas League (Canadian) Tobacco and Hamper Fund. The cheque represented net proceeds from the club's annual concert held on April 16. Services of entertainers were voluntary and the use of the Rialto theatre was contributed by the management. A great number of Cosmopolitan cigarettes will be ear-marked for the City of Edmonton Squadron and The Loyal Edmonton Regiment overseas.

Churchill Proposes World Order Policed by Force To Keep Permanent Peace

chill advocated "a world council of great states" to keep up enough arms to preserve peace after the war, and " a world assembly of all the powers."

He said the Prime Ministers of the Commonwealth had one common immediate objective — "to beat the enemy as soon as possible."

His suggested "world organization," he said, would embody much of the structure of the League of Nations, but this time it must bristle with "overwhelming military power."

"I hope and pray that this may be established and that we may be led to exert ourselves to secure these permanent glories and achievements which can make amends to mankind for all the heroism and sacrifice in their glory."

HITLER "FRANTIC"

He mentioned the "western front" only once as it is commonly defined—and then to observe jocularly that "all this talk of invasion across the channel was keeping Hitler frantic."

Using the Yugoslav situation at one point to illustrate the Allied policy, he said:

"All questions of monarchy, or republic, or leftism are strictly subordinated."

At another point he said: "In one place we support a king, in another a communist. There is no attempt by us to enforce particular ideologies. We only want to beat the enemy and then, in happy and serene peace, let the best expression be given to the will of the people."

U.K.-SOVIET RELATIONS

In touching on British and Russian relations, the prime minister said it seemed to be the great desire of the peoples of both countries to be friends and referred to the "marked departures from conceptions which were held years ago for reasons we can all understand."

He reported that peace terms had been offered Romania by Russia and described them as "remarkably generous" in many respects, saying they "made no suggestions of altering the standards of society in that country." Similarly, he said the Soviet had been "very patient" with Finland.

Mr. Churchill ranged the Japanese with the Germans as those who must give in without condition—suggesting that all satellite Axis powers might perhaps escape with lighter sentences. Specifically, though diplomatically, he warned both Spain and Turkey—the last big neutrals in the Mediterranean area—that Allied victory was coming in the Balkans with or without the support of new recruits.

Churchill brought to parliament a report on the recently concluded talks of the prime ministers' London conference at which, he said, they arrived "at the core of an agreement which will enable the British Empire and Commonwealth to meet in discussion with other powers in a firmly knit array."

GIVE UP PERSUASION

He told Commons that he Allies, after giving Turkey $80,000,000 worth of British and American arms, "have suspended the process of trying to exhort Turkey to range herself with the victorious United Powers."

He added immediately that it looked "probable, in spite of our disappointment," the Allies will be able to win the war in the Balkans and "throughout southeast Europe without Turkey being involved."

But in almost the same breath he declared that "of course the aid of Turkey would be a great acceleration in that process."

He called Turkey's recent suspension of chrome shipments to the Nazis a "generous gesture," but made it clear it would not win her "a strong position at the peace table" which she would have had had she joined the Allies."

ITALY'S FATE TERRIBLE

Turning to the battle ground of the Mediterranean the Prime Minister asserted the "fate of Italy is indeed terrible" and said he found it difficult "to nourish animosity against the Italian people."

As he referred to war-wrought destruction—destruction which he said could not be imagined or forecast—Mr. Churchill promised that "we shall do our utmost to make the ordeal as short and as little destructive as possible."

"We have great hopes that Rome may be preserved," he said.

Mr. Churchill had praise for the new Italian government, saying it is "facing its responsibilities manfully, doing all in its power to aid the Allies in their advance."

He said that when Germany is driven out and tranquility is restored "it is for the Italians to decide whatever form of democratic government they desire."

NO MORE FASCISM

As Commons cheered he said he emphasized the word "democracy because we could not allow any form of Fascism to be set up in any country with which we have been at war."

He reviewed the long negotiations with Spain, and told of difficulties since the departure of Sir Samuel Hoare as ambassador at Madrid four years ago, when "it seemed certain that Spain would join Germany following Italy's example."

He revealed that the Germans at that time "suggested triumphal marches of German troops and probably that in return for the virtual occupation of Spain they should undertake the seizure of Gibraltar."

Striking out at the criticism of foreign policy toward Spain, he declared Spain's internal policies were a "matter for Spaniards alone" and added he had "no sympathy for those who think it clever and even funny to insult and abuse the government of Spain."

IMPROVED RELATIONS

He said he looked forward to increasing good relations with that country and to "an extremely fertile trade between Spain and this country" during the war and after the peace.

As for Greece, where Britain has been trying to end internal strife, he reported "complete unity" was reached at the Lebanon conference and "all parties will be represented in the new Greek government which will devote itself to formation of a national army in which all guerilla bands be incorporated."

There were cheers when Mr. Churchill said early in the speech: "I thought it right to speak bluntly today."

He told Commons he received a message from King Peter of Yugoslavia saying the prime minister and cabinet had resigned and a new cabinet was being formed to assist all active resistance in that country. Mr. Churchill said he understood this meant severance of Gen. Draja Mihailovic, war minister and Chetnik leader, from the government.

MUST UNITE UNDER TITO

He said flatly that "our project is that all the forces of Yugoslavia may be united under the military direction of Marshal Tito to expel the Hitlerite invader."

He reported that the reason for stopping the flow of supplies to Mihailovic is that he had not been fighting the enemy and "some of his subordinates have made accommodations with the Germans."

He said the Allies are planning to send "the largest possible supply of weapons" to Tito, who will have a personal military representative in London.

Just a few hours after disclosure that the Polish national council sent representatives to Moscow, possibly seeking to set up a rival government to the Polish government here, Mr. Churchill expressed regret over the inability to bring a renewal of relationship between Russia and the Polish administration in London.

RELATIONS NOT TOO BAD

"We must take care to say nothing that would make an agreement more difficult in the future," he added, saying he was "anxious" that the underground movement should help rather than clash with the advancing Red army.

He said, however, that he held the impression that things between Russia and Poland are "not as bad as they appear on the surface."

Turning to the delicate subject of French relationships, Mr. Churchill said the reason Britain and the United States have not been able to recognize the National Liberation Committee as the country's provisional government "is because we are not sure it represents the French nation as the governments of Great Britain, United States and the Soviet represent their countries."

He argued that "we do not wish to commit ourselves at this stage to imposing the government of the French committee upon France, which may fall under our control, without more knowledge than we now possess of the situation in interior France."

But he emphasized that "We shall have no dealings with the Vichy government or anyone tainted with that association," and disclosed that with President Roosevelt's approval he had invited Gen. Charles de Gaulle to "pay us a visit over here in the near future."

TALK THINGS OVER

He said he had been informed through Alfred Duff Cooper, British representative to the French National committee, that Gen. de Gaulle would be very glad to come.

He added: "There is nothing like talking things over."

Mr. Churchill told the house that the Atlantic Charter "in no way binds us about the future of Germany. It has no qualities of a bargain or contract with our enemies."

He said the charter "Remains the guiding sign post, expressing a vast body of opinion among all powers now fighting against tyranny."

Mr. Churchill declared that the principle of unconditional surrender will be adhered to as far as Nazi Garman and Japan are concerned.

MAY DIVIDE REICH

"There is no question of Germany enjoying any guarantee that she will not undergo territorial changes if it would seem that the making of such changes render more secure the peace of Europe," he said.

"We intend to set up a world order equipped with everything necessary to prevent the repetition of the horrible destruction of this and the last war."

He declared this world order would be "equipped with all necessary attributes of power in order to prevent the breaking out of wars or the long planning of them by restless and ambitious nations."

He said plainly this world order must be backed by force.

"There must be a world council, comprising the great stages which emerge from this war, who would have to keep in being minimum standards of armaments to preserve the peace and the world assembly of all the powers. The latter could only be settled after the formidable forces we are facing have been reduced to complete submission.

NEEDS OF FUTURE

"The future towards which we are marching across bloody fields and frightful manifestations of destruction, must be based upon broad and simple virtues and upon the nobility of mankind. It must be based upon rules of law which uphold the principles of justice and fair play, which protect the weak against the strong, if the weak have justice on their side."

He said the world structure would "embody a great part of what was gained to the world by the structure and formation of the League of Nations, but we must arm our world organization and make sure it has overwhelming military power."

I hope and pray that this may be established and that we may be led to exert ourselves to secure those permanent glories and achievements which alone can make amends to mankind for all the heroism and sacrifice which is their glory," he said.

During the late glacial period, 15,000 to 25,000 years ago, Alaska was without ice, although glaciers covered most of North America.

Lack of Leaders, Funds Restricts Fitness Program

By HELEN BANNERMAN

OTTAWA, May 24 — (CP) — play-grounds, organization of provincial committees and finances came up for discussion at the first session of a two-day meeting of the National Council of Physical Fitness here yesterday when nine provincial representatives reported lack of trained leaders and to a lesser extent lack of money as the greatest bar to a well-rounded physical fitness program.

The questions were referred to the resolutions committee and the committee on provincial organization which will submit reports today.

Results of this national conference will direct the future course of Canada's first national physical fitness program instituted under the National Physical Fitness Act.

PROGRAM DIRECTOR

Maj. Ian Eisenhardt, Danish-Canadian from Vancouver, is director of the program. Welcoming members of the council and guests, Maj. Eisenhardt emphasized the large number of men rejected by services medical boards as proof that "physical illiteracy on the home front hampers both the fighting man and the civilian."

The national physical fitness program planned by the council would include recreation and sports for everyone—including cripples and disabled returned men, said Maj. Eisenhardt.

Dr. J. J. Heagerty, federal director of public health services, who also attended the conference, said: "We haven't proposed to impose any restrictions on the provinces under the Physical Fitness Act but we hoped it might be possible at this meeting to make a basic plan which would give the provinces something to work on."

GRANT OF $225,000

The National Physical Fitness Act provides for a Dominion grant of $225,000 to be distributed among the provinces "in a sufficient amount to enable the national council on physical fitness to carry on its activities."

Maj. Eisenhardt has been allotted $25,000, covering salary, expenses and salaries of helpers. Transportation expenses are paid members of the council to attend two national conferences a year.

J. Mathison, Vancouver, director of physical education for British Columbia, said his province has had its own physical fitness program for 10 years. He added he hoped, for a stepped-up physical fitness program with trained leaders.

W. A. Wellband, Regina, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., referred to the loneliness and remoteness in agricultural life in Saskatchewan and stressed the need for group activities for an agricultural population.

WANT LEADERSHIP

"My province has done nothing on a physical fitness program and we want direction from this body—most of all leadership," he said.

J. H. Ross, Calgary, Alberta director of health and recreation, said Alberta started a physical fitness program in 1938, following British Columbia's plan as far as possible.

R. W. Soumans, Winnipeg, director of physical education for the University of Manitoba, said the Manitoba youth training course was suffering a shortage of trained leaders due to the war.

"The solution for the juvenile delinquency problem is not just in providing recreational facilities for youth," he said. "We must also provide leadership and supervision."

Dies in Action

FO. Kenneth Scott Johnson, 21 years old, who was killed on air operations overseas on May 15. He joined the air force in May of 1941, and trained at Edmonton and Calgary, graduating as a sergeant pilot and going overseas in January of 1942. He received his commission overseas, and was an instructor in England for 18 months. He received his education at McCauley and Victoria High schools, and for four years was a carrier boy for The Edmonton Bulletin. A funeral service was held at Harrogate, England, on May 19. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. L. Johnson, and a sister, Mrs. Campbell, 11435 Jasper avenue.

Gardiner Mistaken On Bacon Contract

OTTAWA, May 24—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said yesterday in the Commons he had made an error Monday night in telling the house that negotiations had been completed for a four-year bacon contract with the United Kingdom.

He said he had found out later that negotiations were completed on the program for 1944 and 1945 under which at least 500,000,000 pounds of bacon would be shipped annually at prices similar to those prevailing under the present contract covering these years and calling for delivery of a minimum of 900,000,000 pounds in two years.

Negotiations had not been completed on the quantity and price of bacon to be shipped in 1946 and 1947. The British government was prepared to enter into a contract covering these two years and Canada was willing to supply the bacon, but negotiations were not completed.

(The minister said Monday night that under a four-year contract which had been negotiated Canada would ship the United Kingdom as much bacon in the next four years as in the last four years, or about 2,045,000,000 pounds.)

Loses Count Navy Sweeps On Atlantic

After so many sweeps across and part way across the Atlantic that he's "lost count," Leading Stoker Hyatt Cumming has arrived home to spend a month's leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cumming, Chisholm block.

Stoker aboard a corvette, he has been on Trans-Atlantic convoy duty for the last two years. Of the corvette he says: "She's a good little ship and very seaworthy.

"Of course they're rough as hell, but I've got over being seasick, thank gosh, and it doesn't bother me any more."

He's seen "a few" German subs and his ship has taken part in a number of chases, but he said, "we've never been lucky enough to get one yet."

Born and educated in Edmonton, the young seamen enlisted in the navy in December, 1940, at H.M.C.S. Discovery at Vancouver. He trained at Esquimalt and did a sweep around to the east coast before going on overseas duty in 1942.

Japanese Can't Conquer China Present Forces

The Japanese will have to place considerably greater forces in the field if they are to conquer the Chinese on the mainland. That is the opinion of Dr. Harrison J. Mullett, Toronto, who was a resident of China for more than 25 years. He was caught in the Japanese invasion at Hong Kong and was interned in the civilian prisoner of war camp at Stanley Park, Hong Kong.

Dr. Mullett, who arrived in Edmonton Wednesday on his way to Aklavik, was repatriated on the Swedish liner Gripsholm in December, 1943, after spending 21 months in a prisoner-of-war camp.

He said that the Japanese did not mistreat them in the camp, adding that the rations allowed were very meagre. He said that during the period of his internment he lost 80 pounds. Since returning to Canada he has regained 20 pounds.

Dr. Mullett went to China as a dental missionary under the auspices of the United Church of Canada. He was a professor in the college of medicine and dentistry at the West China Union University, Chengtu, for more than 25 years.

He was returning from a holiday in Canada in 1941 and had just reached Hong Kong when the Japanese attacked the British island. He went through the siege and was taken prisoner on surrender of the island.

MET GEN. COHEN

During his internment he met General Morris Cohen, and recently met him in Toronto. Dr. Mullett is going to Aklavik to operate the dental clinic at the Anglican hospital at the northern outpost.

Dr. Mullet is an intimate friend of Gener alissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and was a guest of honor at his wedding. He said that prior to returning to Canada on holiday in 1941, he made a set of dentures for the generalissimo.

Commenting on conditions at Stanley Park prison camp he said the Japanese did not treat the prisoners badly, but the amount of food allowance was starvation diet. He said that the daily allowances was eight ounces of rice, four of meat, two of vegetables in, and two ounces of vegetables.

PRISONERS WEAKENED

During the first year activities in the camp followed a routine of games such as soft ball, concerts and other entertainment, but at the end of the first year all inmates were too weak from malnutrition to take further part in games.

He said there were no deaths from actual starvation in the camp, but many malnutritional diseases caused death.

During his 21 months at the prison camp only one Red Cross parcel came for each camp member, and only two letters were received by him during his 21 months in the camp. This was because the Japanese declined to co-operate with International Red Cross officials.

THE QUESTION

Have you any single experience that comes to mind as the most vivid moment of your life?

THE ANSWERS

H. SNOW, clerk: I'll never forget the day I was out in a canoe on the river and it capsized. I don't know to this day why it did it, but I do know that it cured me of boating for life. The next time I go in a boat, it's going to be on dry land or big enough so that it looks like dry land. No more canoeing!

M. JOHNSON, student: I would say the day when my two brothers joined the air force. We were talking about going to a dance for service men, and who we would go with. I got home, and both boys had left, for a holiday I thought. Imagine my surprise when on the day of the dance, they came home from a "M" Depot. I took them both and we had a marvellous time.

D. ROBERTS, caretaker: Hands down it was the day we went after Jerry in the battle of the Somme. We went in behind tanks, and the look of the Germans as they saw those lumbering machines coming at them I'll remember forever. It was a pushover for us at first. My experience with the army ended on the Somme, at Courcelette, and that was unforgettable, too.

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

With rationing of meat now removed, we can use lamb more frequently in wartime menus.

LAMB FRICASSEE WITH GREEN LIMAS

(Serves 6)

One and one-half pounds lamb, ¾ cup flour, 4 tablespoons shortening, 1 cup boiling water, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon garlic salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups stewed tomatoes, 2 cups green fresh lima beans or quick-frozen limas, freshly cooked.

Use meat from neck or breast of lamb. Cut in 1-inch cubes, roll in flour; saute in shortening until browned. Add water and seasonings; simmer about an hour until meat is tender. Add tomatoes and the freshly cooked limas. Reheat and serve.

For a substantial meat dish, try this:

KIDNEY AND MUSHROOM SHORTCAKE

(Serves 6)

Two veal kidneys, one 8-ounce can mushrooms or ½ pound fresh mushrooms, 4 tablespoons shortening 3 tablespoons flour, 2 carrots, thinly sliced, 1 onion, thinly sliced, 1 cup milk, 1 cup water, ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning or thyme or sage, shortcake.

Slice the kidneys and remove membrane. Salt and pepper and dust with flour. Slice mushrooms Brown gently in butter in heavy frying pan. Add the carrots, liquid (if canned mushrooms are used, be sure to use the liquid), and seasoning. Cook gently about 10 minutes. Mix the flour with a little cold water and add to thicken the gravy. Serve between the layers and over the top of six individual shortcakes.

For shortcakes: use same recipe as for yesterday's strawberry shortcake, omitting the sugar.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Girl, 16, Has Desire Do Things, Go Places

Realizes She Is Too Young to Marry a Boy of 18, Who Would Find That Calf Love Doesn't Last. Isn't Real

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a boy of 18 about to be inducted into the armed forces. I am engaged to marry a young girl of 16 who is very extravagant and wants all kinds of jewelry and to have good times. I love her very much, but I don't know whether she will be satisfied to live on the allowance the army given and I have no money of my own.

Should I marry her before I go into the army and try to keep her happy and be in debt all the time? Or should I forget about her?

J. D. C.

Answer: Forget about her, son. Forget about her. Don't marry her for her sake as well as your own, because nothing short of a miracle direct from heaven could keep any such marriage from ending in a tragedy, and Providence doesn't interfere to save us from our folly when we make idiotic marriages. It lets us go on and suffer the bitter consequences.

To begin with, you and the girl are both entirely too young to marry. You are still children with the emotions of children, and before you had been married three months you would have recovered from your attack of calf love and found somebody else with whom you thought you were in love.

There isn't a chance that this pleasure-loving little girl, who is at the time of life when she wants to step out and dance and go places and amuse herself, will be content to sit at home of evenings with Mama and Papa and knit sweaters and write to you. She will be off having a good time with other boys.

And you will crave pleasure just the same as she does and you will be running around with some cutie whom you have met at some army base and, as the old poem says, you will be kissing the lips that are nearest instead of pining for the lips that are far away. And another war marriage will have gone on the rocks.

And don't forget this, son: that no marriage can be happy where the wife keeps the husband in debt all the time. It just can't be done. So don't try it.

SILENCES

Dear Miss Dix: We have been married for almost five years. Have a two-year-old baby boy and are very happy. The only thing we quarrel about our silence. Neither of us are talkative and sometimes an evening passes by without hardly any conversation at all.

My husband's opinion is that a woman, having the initiative, should start a conversation. I think that the man should because a woman, spending all her time minding the baby and looking after the house, has not so much to say to her husband as a man who spends all of his time with different people and seeing and hearing new things. Which of us do you think is right?

SILENT PARTNERS.

Answer: I don't know that there are any ethics involved in the problem, but whichever should start a conversation, ninety-nine times out of a hundred it is the woman. Look about you, not only in social gatherings but in the family circle, and you will see that it is the women who are working like coal-heavers to entertain the men, while the men are sitting on the back of their necks and waiting to be amused, and only signifying by an occasional grunt that they are still awake and listening in.

And whether this is because women are quicker on the trigger with their tongues than men are, or because most of them love the sound of their own voices, or whether they just have more of the gift for gab than men, nobody knows. It is just that way.

Of course, there is no official record of the matter, but I'll bet that the first woman started the first conversation. Maybe the reason Eve fell from grace in conversation with the snake that resulted in our losing our happy home was because there was one of those dummy husbands who always answered "nothing" when his wife asked him what happened at the office today.

EXPEDIENCY

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband answers to the name of Jo. He nags at all the time about it. Should I give up my cigarette when he won't give up his?

WIFE.

Answer: What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. But is your cigarette any more to you than living in peace with your husband? It isn't a matter of right. It is a question of expediency.

MY DAY

WASHINGTON — Sunday morning I went over to the Y.M.C.A. to speak to their group composed of civilians and army and navy men. The new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Sarah Dickinson, introduced me and they all seemed to be enjoying good breakfasts.

We had a quiet Sunday evening, with supper on the porch. I love to watch the changing lights on the Washington monument and gradually see the vista light out, through which we catch a glimpse of the Lincoln Memorial. Many people can hardly believe that from the south porch of the White House we look straight at the Jefferson Memorial, but my husband has covered it was visible some time ago and the vista was made complete by the removal of two trees. Just now there is a flagpole that has been placed so it shows up against the monument, but perhaps some day the park authorities will find a new place for that.

Tonight I am going to pay a second visit to the United Nations Service Centre. Volunteers work here all night and they have been anxious that I see something of their work since it is increasing in volume all the time.

In "Washington Merry-Go-Round" a few days ago there was a story which seemed large propaganda considering that the gesture was such a simple one. A young woman spoke to me after I left the U.S. Information Centre and we walked along together. She said she was on my "day off" as she put it, and she often went sight-seeing. So I asked if she would like to walk into the White House with me and look around. It was very simple as it never occurred to me that anything would come of it.

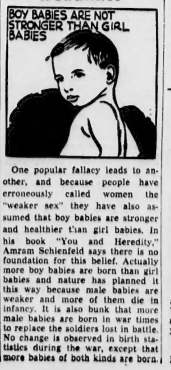

There is a slight mistake in the story as Mr. Pearson gave it, however, which I feel must be corrected. The books given every two years by the various publishers to the White House are kept in a library on the first floor. From there they are taken upstairs as needed and brought back when not in use. They are not sent to the library at Hyde Park because they are given with the purpose of building up a library here in the White House so that no president, on coming in, will find his shelves denuded and has to start all over on his first night in new surroundings.

There are, of course, a great many books given to the president and to me, as it has long been the custom to send books as they are published to the occupants of the White House. These we often do get to Hyde Park, though I send a great many of mine, after reading them, to various libraries where I know they have difficulty in buying books because of limited funds. For instance, I send books to Mr. James T. Richardson of the Wilderness library in Camden, Sherman, Arkansas; the Arthurdale school library and the school library at Dyess colony in Arkansas.

Debunker

One popular fallacy leads to another, and because people have erroneously called women the "weaker sex" they have also assumed that boy babies are stronger and healthier than girl babies. In his book "You and Heredity," Amram Schienfeld says there is no foundation for this belief. Actually more boy babies are born than girl babies and nature has planned it this way because male babies are weaker and more of them die in infancy. It is also bunk that more male babies are born in war times to replace the soldiers lost in battle. No change is observed in birth statistics during the war, except that more babies of both kinds are born.

Masters individual tournament, each player plays with every other player as a partner, and they too seemed to go around in circles.

The players are inclined to try to master-mind every hand in this event. For example, here is board seven of the first session. One of the country's outstanding players held the fourth hand. When his partner bid a spade, which is an absolute force over one diamond, South decided the hand could not make game and passed. He got an average score, however, because most of the pairs bid six spades and failed due to the queen of spades. Only one pair bid six, correctly guessed the queen of spades, and made it.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Obedience is one of the chief concerns of any parent of a 2 to 5 year-old child. Children of this age have a great sense of their own importance.

They are no longer babies and yet lack the judgment to carry out their numerous desires. These children must learn, as did the younger child, that liberty is balanced by restraint. The restraint will come from those old and wise enough to know what is best for them.

Mrs. E. N. is rearing a 7-year-old grandson. "I love him as much as if he were my own," she writes, "and I try to be patient and understanding. But I am getting nowhere with him. He has spent most of his life with us, about 1½ years with his parents before he was 3.

"But he is disobedient. He promises faithfully that he will come home if I will allow him to play out after school. Then he will not come in until long after 6 and 6 o'clock. He seems not to take much interest in school. The teacher says he can do the work if he will, but his oral work is exceptionally good. He does not get along well with other children. I have tried both talking and punishment but nothing helps. He is a very polite and lovable child."

Life is not quite normal for this boy. He has parents but he doesn't live with them. That sets him apart and must make him wonder what is wrong with him.

It is possible, if he does good oral work, that it is eyes or ears that are defective. No good school work can be done if the tools for learning are blunted.

Also, one wonders where you are when the child stays out until 7 or 8 o'clock? He couldn't if you

McCoy Health Service

Cystitis, or bladder inflammation may occur in both an acute and a chronic form and is equally common in both sexes. Beyond any question of a doubt, many patients who believe they have kidney weakness and who have not yet received a confirmation of kidney trouble have, in reality, been really suffering from bladder irritation.

The surprising fact about cystitis is that frequently the discomfort will be reflexed to the back, appearing as a backache. Very often the patient will not have the slightest reason to suspect that the bladder is the true source of the aching sensation. It has been my experience that inflammation of the bladder is a constant source of discomfort in the lower back, and chronic inflammation of the bladder may induce noticeable back pain without any marked symptoms in the bladder itself.

The bladder is a small sac, in which the liquid waste secreted by the kidneys is stored. The organ is lined with mucous membrane and when the fluid it contains is overloaded with toxic material, the delicate membrance may become irritated and inflammed. The inflammation may be reflected to certain local areas in the bladder or it may be a general inflammation.

There are three principal causes of bladder inflammation. These are chemical causes, bacterial causes and mechanical causes. Bacterial causes create an irritation of the bladder wall due to chemical substances and such irritation may be caused through over indulgence in alcoholic beverages, through using highly spiced foods, through taking certain drugs, and through using garlic and onions, which contain irritating substances which must be eliminated by way of the bladder.

Bacterial infection which is so commonly associated with bladder inflammation may invade the bladder as an extension from some other part of the body. It must be remembered that the fluid ordinarily held in the bladder is sterile; however, in those cases where there is produced an interference with the out-flow of fluid, the liquid will be kept in the bladder for too long a time and this interference and retention favor decomposition and the subsequent thriving of bacteria.

The most important mechanical cause of cystitis is prolapsus, the pressure of the prolapsed or fallen organs in the pelvis which cause a mechanical irritation of the bladder.

The symptoms of cystitis are variable and it is possible for a chronic low-grade cystitis to be present for a considerable period of time without causing the patient to undergo noticeable distress. In addition to the symptom of backache, the patient may describe a burning sensation in the bladder itself, or may mention that bladder discomfort awakens him during the night.

The diagnosis of cystitis is particularly confirmed through the laboratory test of the kidney elimination. It is also necessary to make a careful study of the patient's symptoms and prolonged examining may be required to elicit all of the details which are important. When there is reason to suspect that cystitis is secondary to bladder stones an X-ray examination will prove exceedingly helpful.

I suggest that the short fast be used at the beginning of the treatment for chronic bladder irritation and the plain water fast for a few days usually affords the patient considerable relief. In taking a plain water fast, the patient uses large quantities of distilled water, which liquid will serve the purpose of keeping the fluid in the bladder highly diluted with the result that toxins do not irritate the delicate lining of the bladder to the same extent as would otherwise happen if toxic substances were present in a more concentrated solution.

Conductor Resigns

ROCHESTER, N.Y., May 24.—(AP)—Jose Iturbi, Spanish-born conductor and pianist, resigned yesterday as conductor and musical director of the Rochester Philharmonic orchestra. L. Dudley Field, president of the city's Civic Music Association, in announcing the resignation, said Iturbi's action was prompted by the requirements of current movie contracts.

Iturbi's resignation, Addresso wouldn't allow it. It is foolish, knowing that promises are meaningless, to take any stock in them. Set the time for him to come home and if he isn't there go after him and bring him home. If he knows you mean business he won't loiter long after the designated hour. You are, as are most parents, too dependent upon words and not enough upon acts.

And don't forget that he needs to know what you have told me. That he is a dear to you all own child. His self-esteem must have suffered because of his parents' abandonment of him and he needs the re-assurance of your strong affection. Give it to him.

Miss A. McBride Pledges Vows With Richard Herbert Douglas

The home of J. Boyd McBride, K.C., and Mrs. McBride, 9823 113 street, was the scene of the wedding Wednesday at 10 a.m. when their only daughter, Alison McBride, was married to Richard Herbert Douglas, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Aneus W. Douglas and grandson of Mrs. Cope, now of Vancouver, and the late Col. E. H. Cope.

The rooms were a profusion of spring flowers and the marriage took place before the living room window, banked with flowers.

The Rev. Dr. Murdoch M. MacKinnon performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an aquamarine blue crepe dress trimmed with white. Her hat was a cap style in white trimmed with white veiling and she carried a prayer book bouquet of lilies of the valley, gardenias and white heather. Her only ornament was a diamond and pearl pendant, belonging to her grandmother and worn by her mother on her wedding

Mrs. Robert Grant was matron-of-honor and she wore a navy crepe frock trimmed with white, a hat to match and carried a prayer book bouquet of spring flowers.

Little Miss Francois Teviotdale was flower girl and she wore a white frock and bonnet and carried a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

Dennis Ross was best man and ushers were Ian McBride, Robert Guy and Robert Douglas.

BRIDE'S MOTHER

Mrs. McBride chose for her daughter's wedding a guardsman blue two-piece suit, a blue and white hat to tone, and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Douglas, mother of the bridegroom, wore a grey crepe dress, purple hat and a corsage of violets.

After the ceremony a reception was held for 35 guests. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with an antique silver and crystal vase filled with sweetheart roses and white heather. White tapers in silver holders lighted the centrepiece.

Norman L. Harvey, Vancouver, proposed the toast to the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas left later for Banff where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride travelling in her wedding frock and a top-coat of camel hair. They will be in town briefly upon their return from Banff and will leave for Newfoundland where they will make their home.

GRADUATE NURSE

The bride was graduated from the University of Alberta School of Nursing in 1943. At present she is completing a post-graduate course in public health at the University of Alberta. She is a member of the U. of A. Hospital Nurses' Alumnae Association and Macleod Club, the R.C.A.F. Chapter, I.O.D.E., and of the Junior Hospital League. She has been active in sports in the city as a member of Briarcrest Saddle Club, Edmonton Badminton Club, Glenora Skating Club and Edmonton Golf and Country Club. She is a member of Robertson United church.

Mr. Douglas was graduated from the University of Alberta in 1941 with the degree of B. Sc. in Arts and Sciences and honors in physics. At present he is a forecaster in the Dominion Meteorological Service stationed at Gander in Newfoundland. In 1937 he was one of the Alberta students chosen to attend the Coronation and sent to London. While at the University here he was a member of the Physics Club, the Outdoor Club and the Philharmonic Society.

R.C.N. BABY CLINIC

In the Royal Canadian Navy hospital at a Newfoundland port, medical officers and nursing sisters, financed by naval canteen funds, are operating a clinic for the benefit of the children of R.C.N. personnel. The chief work is immunization against communicable diseases and expert advice on feeding. Eleven-months-old Louise, daughter of Lieut. (SB) Harry Paul Demers, R.C.N.V.R., and Mrs. Demers, of Montreal, is considered the outstanding personality in the clinic. Her sprightly charm and humorful smile are the delight of the clinic staff. Louise sits quietly while Surgeon Commander A. A. Giffin, R.C.N.V.R., principal medical officer, examines one of her ears.

The Personal Column

BY kind permission of Wing Commander Ewart G. Macpherson the band of No. 4 I.T.S. will play on the University hospital grounds during the garden party arranged by the Women's Auxiliary to the University hospital, Wednesday, May 31, at 3:30 p.m. In case of rain the party will be held in the Red Cross Hut. Report Condition Of Quadruplets Is Satisfactory

LONDON, May 24.—(CP)—The Moxham quadruplets—three boys and a girl—were reported in temporarily satisfactory condition at the Southend Municipal hospital last night, but the survival chances for two were described as precarious.

Dr. S. Geiman, superintendent of the hospital, said the babies, born Monday night to Mrs. Daisy Moxham, were "immature, not premature."

"The condition of all four is satisfactory," he said. "There is a good chance of the two bigger babies surviving, but the two smaller ones are not such a good risk. The mother was not very well Monday night but she is progressing."

Saskatchewan Service Vote Details Given

REGINA, May 24—(CP)—Service electors in Saskatchewan will vote in the constituencies in which they are stationed, but for a candidate in their own home constituency, it was explained Tuesday by Capt. Peter S. Dela, special returning officer for taking the service vote in the province.

Capt. Dela will also be the returning officer for taking the service vote in Canada, outside Saskatchewan, including Newfoundland.

Servicemen in Saskatchewan will vote on general election day June 15. Servicemen from this province stationed elsewhere will vote on a date to be announced. They will vote for servicemen candidates to represent them in the legislature. Later elections in Britain and the Mediterranean area will also be held to elect servicemen candidates.

"WRITE-IN" BALLOTS

The ballots used in Saskatchewan will be a "write-in" ballot. The elector will write on the ballot the name of candidate or candidates for whom he wants to vote.

There will be provided at every polling place a list of all candidates in every electoral district.

The ballot boxes will be shipped unopened to the special returning officer at the courthouse, Regina, for counting. The special returning officer will make a return of the active service votes cast for each candidate to each returning officer, and will in addition send a statement to each candidate showing the number of active service votes cast for each candidate in the electoral division in which he was a candidate.

Soldier Settlers Ask Clear Titles

OTTAWA, May 24—(CP)—Delegates from the Soldiers' Settlers Association of Canada said yesterday that Resources Minister Crerar and other members of the cabinet had assured them a petition for clear titles to land held by their 6,000 members in western Canada would be given "speedy and careful consideration."

The delegation of nine, headed by President Harold C. Baker, Fielding, Sask., and Secretary Alfred J. Brady, Biggar, Sask., predeford, Sask., interviewed the cabinet for two hours and then talked to representatives of the various political parties.

They presented a brief to the cabinet asking for a clear title to land on which there already is paid nearly $70,000,000—an amount which they claim is as much as it is worth. There is still nearly $8,000,000 outstanding and it is this amount they want written off.

Robert Fair (C.C.F.—Battle River) on behalf of the association, presented a petition if the Commons calling for clear titles and bearing 12,500 signatures.

Man at Winnipeg Is Found Wounded

WINNIPEG, May 24.—(CP)—Police announced last night that Joe Wyronko, 46, of Winnipeg, was found yesterday in north Winnipeg slumped over the steering wheel of an automobile with a bullet wound in his chest. He was taken to hospital where his condition was reported as fairly good. Police said a bullet from a .38 calibre revolver passed through Wyronko's body from behind.

Airmen Rescued By Speed Launch

LONDON, May 24—(CP)—Racing through heavy seas more than 150 miles from base, a high speed motor launch of the air sea rescue service, recently picked up the entire crew of ten of an American bomber only a few miles from the coastline of occupied Europe. The plane, returning from Friday's mass raid on Berlin had had two of its engines knocked out by German fighters and the pilot decided to "ditch" in the channel. One gunner was injured.

Utmost Effort Made to Give Packers Labor

OTTAWA, May 24—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said last night in the Commons that the number of workers in packing plants increased by 564 between April 1 and May 13. The minister said every effort had been made to maintain labor forces to handle the heavy flow of livestock marketings.

Farmers who had left their farms to work in the packing plants had been assured they could if they wished remain at the plants until the difficulty in handling the heavy marketing passed. Some could not remain away from their farms, however. There had been co-operation of provincial governments and others in providing packing plant labor.

OTHERS EMPLOYED

Some workers had to leave the plants for the farms, but others had been employed.

Labor Minister Mitchell said there were about 4,000 more persons in the packing industry than before the war.

G. H. Castleden (C.C.F.—Yorkton) had asked whether women in the packing industry received equal pay for equal work, and Mr. Mitchell said representations on such questions could be made to the regional national war labor board.

Mr. Gardiner said there often had been criticism of the packing industry among farmers, some of it with reason behind it, if every farm boy worked in a packing plant for a time he would learn much of value about slaughtering, processing and marketing of livestock.

HELPFUL EXPERIENCE

If ever in the future the farmers decide to have their co-operative packing plants run by their own people some would thus have helpful experience in the running of such plants.

Mr. Gardiner said he believed co-operatively-run plants whether run by farmers themselves or by business men and farmers in co-operation were better than state-operated plants of the type desired by the C.C.F.

"This group never advocated state ownership of packing plants and the minister knows it," said P. E. Wright (C.C.F.-Melfort).

SAYS MOVE UNWISE

Mr. Wright said he did not believe it was wise to take men from agriculture for packing plant labor when there were less important industries from which men might be drawn.

Mr. Mitchell said he understood that a slowdown in an Edmonton packing plant had ended. Discussions now were taking place between employers and employees and a conclusion was expected yesterday or today.

C.P.R. Aids Battle To Prevent Fires

WINNIPEG, Man., May 24—Interlocked with organized efforts to the general public to protect against fire hazards and fire loss, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and its employees present a united front with the firefighters of the dominion, Frank Palin, C.P.R. insurance commissioner, Montreal, explained this when his company was elected a member of the executive committee of the Dominion Fire Prevention Association, with himself as personal representative, at the annual conference of the association at the Royal Alexandra hotel.

Heavy property interests in railway equipment, right-of-way and in its hotel chain across Canada and the protection of the travelling public place Mr. Palin's department among the most active in the railway's system.

Vast improvements in fire-proofing and the concerted vigilance of the railway company and its employees all along the system had substantially reduced danger from fire to both public and property, Mr. Palin said. Increased mutual effort to this end had placed danger from fire at a minimum.

Gyro Club members were entertained by the No. 1 C.T.S. orchestra through the kind permission of Wing Commander E. G. Macpherson, at their regular Tuesday lunch-eon meeting at the Macdonald. FO. Arnold Armour was in charge, and Sgt. Ralph H. Mumford conducted the orchestra in a varied program of selections. President H. E. Hamly presided as chairman.

Plan "D" Day Prayer Service City Churches

Half-hour prayer services, to be held in various city churches on or near the day that the Allies strike at the German fortress of Europe, have been arranged by the Edmonton General Ministerial Association.

Hour for the services has been set for 11:30 a.m., but the day will be determined as follows:

1. If official announcement of the fact of invasion by accredited Allied authorities is received by 10 a.m. on any day, the services will take place at 11:30 a.m. on that day. 2. If official announcement is received after 10 a.m. on any day, the services will take place at 11:30 a.m. of the day following. 3. If official announcement is received on any Sunday, the services will take place at 11:30 a.m. on the next day, Monday.

GIVE STATEMENT

A statement issued by the association reads as follows:

"Special attention should be directed to the point of the "official announcement by accredited Allied authorities." This announcement certainly will come many hours, and probably some days, after the actual event of invasion. Earlier reports emanating from enemy and neutral sources surely will be broadcast by press and radio. The announcement which will call the people of Edmonton to prayer will be the official one of our own Allied authorities.

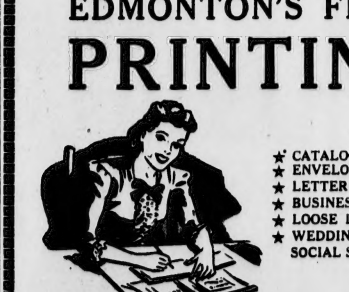

"The greatness of the impending hour about to strike, and the general state of prayer on the part of all, may suggest to houses of business and industry the desirability of releasing employees that all who wish may avail themselves of the opportunity of participation in these services of intercession.

"The services should not in any way interfere with the plans of individual churches and denominations. They are not meant to displace, but to supplement, other programs. It is understood that many churches are now, and will be, open for prayer in these days of stress.

The interdenominational services planned by Ministerial association will be held in the following churches: Knox United, First Presbyterian, McDonald Baptist, Crescent United, Christ Church, Anglican, Highlands United, St. Faith's Church, Anglican.

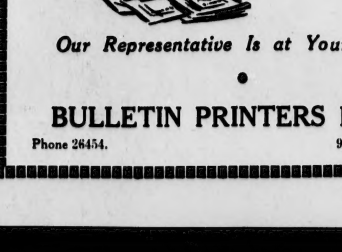

The hour of invasion by Allied forces of the continent of Europe is probably very near. Many people on the first day of invasion will want to avail themselves of opportunities of meeting with others in order that together they may reach out for contact with divine sources of courage and strength both for themselves and for dear ones who may be in the very centres of combat.

Even if the earth did not rotate at all on its own axis the sun would rise and set once during the year because of the earth's journey around it.

R.C.A.F. Invents New Casualty Bag

Conceived and designed by R.C.A.F. medical officers, the casualty bag shown above keps sick and wounded airmen warm and comfortable in their aerial ambulances as they fly through the cold upper air thousands of feet above the earth. Developed by the Clinical Investigation Unit of the R.C.A.F. at Toronto and built by a Canadian sportswear firm at Belleville, Ont., the bag has been tested in the field and found satisfactory. It gives maximum warmth with minimum weight and, by an ingenious use of two-way zippers, permits nurses to treat any part of the patient's body in flight without exposing the rest. Built like a form-fitting sleeping bag, the covering permits the use of Thomas or plaster splints on arms or legs. The bag does away with the use of blankets in transporting patients by air and allows free movement of the patient within the bag without disturbing its insulating qualities. It is flash-proofed and shower-proofed and, by means of inside release tabs, the patient can free himself in emergency. The patient shown above is Flight Sgt. J. H. R. Tourigny, Weyburn, Sask., being cared for by Nursing Sister S. Lack (1969 Main St.), Winnipeg. She qualified as a flight nurse in the air evacuation course at Bowman Field, Kentucky.

Dog-tired and discouraged Nazi prisoners of war marching ahead of an American guard on the road to Castleforte, Italy, glumly greet some of their comrades in a passing truck. They were captured during the terrific Allied offensive that shattered the Gustav Line.

Nazi Pup-Tank Proves Flopperoo

Members of a British tank recovery unit on the Anzio beachhead look over another one of Hitler's "secret weapons" that proved a flop in practice. This one's a pup-sized tank, 12 feet long, 6 feet wide, 4 feet high, which carries about 800 pounds of explosives. Driver takes it as far as he dares, then leaps out, while tank proceeds to objective under radio control. Allies captured large numbers of them intact.

What Pre-Invasion Bombing Does

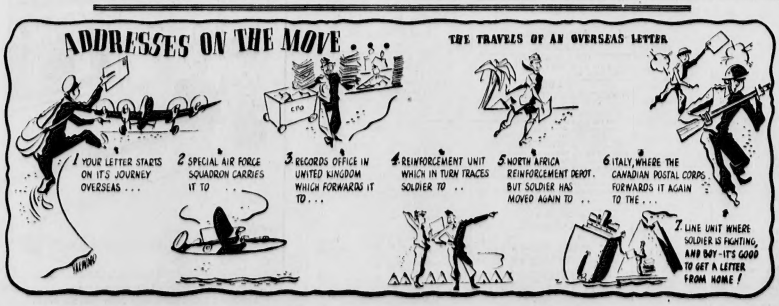

The photos above present pictorial evidence of the almost unbelievable destruction that can be wrought by Allied bombers on German military targets in a single attack. The "before" photo, at left, above, shows huge tank and truck depot at Mailly, France, before an R.A.F. night attack. The other is the "after" scene, result of 1,500 tons of explosive and incendiary bombs. Note individual buildings in "before" photo—and then try and find them in the other.

Commissioner Says New Zealand Most Democratic Nation in World

"There can't be any more democratic a nation in the world than New Zealand," the Hon. David Wilson, New Zealand High Commissioner to Canada, said Tuesday afternoon, at the Corona hotel.

"Any adult 21 years of age and over who is a resident of a district three months and in fact 12 and a year is entitled to vote," he continued. "In fact, voting is compulsory and citizens who do not exercise their right are penalized," he said.

Speaking before a Chamber of Commerce Council meeting in his honor, Mr. Wilson briefly outlined facts about New Zealand and expressed his appreciation for "the nothing but praise I have heard from New Zealand servicemen as to the hospitality extended to them by Canada."

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

"I would like to publicly express my appreciation for the manner in which Canadian air authorities have looked after our boys, not only those from New Zealand, but all over and including Canada. No mother in New Zealand or Canada need worry about how her boy is being trained or cared for," he said.

Speaking about New Zealand, he said that probably the most interesting thing is the fact that a little country like New Zealand has made so much progress from a social point of view.

He explained the set up of the New Zealand government, a Labor government, pointing out that the government has been called socialistic. However, he said, the things that New Zealand has instituted and even things that Canada has done and any other progressive nation has done, have received the stigma of socialism, which is a word used in a very loose manner.

Actually, he said, "the government which I now represent believes that if private enterprise cannot do a job effectively and well and it is in the interests of the people of that country that it should be doen well, and if private enterprise fails, then the government shall step in.

WANTED BY PEOPLE

"If that is socialism," he continued, "the people themselves have voted for it, and that is what they have got."

Mr. Wilson pointed out that the people of New Zealand are very politically-minded and follow with interest and take an active part in initiating changes in legislation of a socially beneficious character.

He outlined the way the government is constituted, two houses, one a general assembly of 80 representatives elected by direct vote, including four representatives of the Maori people, which number about 90,000 in the country, and a legislative council to which representatives are elected for a seven-year-term.

He said that there is no "native problem" in New Zealand. The native population has been elevated to the same level of rights and privileges as the European citizens and participate in the life of the country.

INCREASING RAPIDLY

"In fact," he added, "the Maori population has been increasing in numbers, something that doesn't usually happen, and increasing even more rapidly than in any other group of New Zealand citizens.

The New Zealand social security system, he said, "gives any individual born in New Zealand economic security from the day he is born to the day he dies and applies to all citizens. We are very proud of that," he said.

Mr. Wilson, who has also been minister of broadcasting in New Zealand, outlined some of the differences between broadcasting there and in other nations.

He said that the government owns the broadcasting stations, and permits only five commercial stations to sell time on the air, while the 17 national stations aim at programs to raise the cultural level of the nation.

In addition, he said, "we are the only country that I know of, in which the proceedings of the parliament are on the air every minute that parliament is sitting."

He said that at some future time he would like to have the opportunity to tell the people of Canada more about New Zealand, not to be "boastful," but in the hope that they will agree that some of the things we have done will be beneficial to the people of Canada.

COMPLIMENTS PROGRAM

He complimented the Canadian Chamber of Commerce for its program as outlined in the first of a series of brochures, which were distributed at the meeting and said it seemed to be the same type of program which New Zealand has supported, and "I wish the Chamber of Commerce every success in making it popular and bringing it into operation in Canada," he said.

The high commissioner was in Edmonton on his first tour of air training schools in Canada in his official capacity, and particularly to visit New Zealand forces training here. He was accompanied by Group Captain T. W. White, chief liaison officer for the Royal New Zealand Air Force, Flt. Lieut. E. W. A. Drake, aide to Capt. White, and W. L. Middlemass, his secretary.

In expressing his appreciation on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce Council, J. Boyd McBride, K.C., president and chairman, said that Mr. Wilson's visit and address were especially significant because such visits "draw closer the link and joins us together in the Commonwealth of Nations.

"Although Mr. Wilson did not mention the New Zealand war effort," Mr. McBride said, "we want him to know that we follow with anxious care the splendid record of what the New Zealanders have done throughout the world in all the wartime theatres and in their own nation."

Also present at the luncheon was Robert English, United States General Consul here, who will soon be leaving for Ottawa.

ENJOYED STAY HERE

Replying to Mr. McBride's expression of regret at his departure Mr. English said: "I have enjoyed very much being here and I would like to have stayed to see the developments which have already started and which I think will go farther after the war.

"I hope to be able to get back some day," he said, and meanwhile, "I wish to thank you very much for the courtesies and privileges you have extended while I have been here."

Among the other guests welcomed were the Rev. Gray Rivers, Calgary, secretary of the Alberta Boys' Work Board, and J. C. Jones, a new member of the council, who succeeded J. Ivan MacKay as Edmonton superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway as representative to the Chamber of Commerce railway section.

Govt. Contribution To Health Scheme Not Yet Decided

OTTAWA, May 24—(CP)—The Commons committee on social security completed yesterday examination of all but three clauses in the draft national health insurance bill which it has been examining for the last four months.

The meeting, like previous sessions which dealt only with the bill, was held in camera. However, a spokesman for the committee told The Canadian Press that discussions bogged down on clauses dealing with the amount of federal contributions to assist the provinces in paying for health insurance.

Some committee members felt that more information should be obtained from the provinces before any recommendation is made on how much the federal government should contribute to a health insurance plan that would be administered by the provinces.

Past President Of City C.C.F. Given Banquet

Eighty persons,- members of Edmonton C.C.F. party, gathered at a banquet and entertainment in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. Harry Miller, at the Corona hotel Tuesday evening. The guests of honor, who have been residents of this city for many years, will leave to take up residence at the Pacific coast at the end of the month.

Mr. Miller, immediate past-president of the Edmonton C.C.F. party, headed the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Labor party prior to the formation of the former movement, and has held executive offices in the Alberta branch of the C.L.P. On behalf of the provincial executive, he was presented with a pen and pencil set by Ald. H. D. Ainlay.

TRIBUTE IS PAID

Elmer E. Roper, C.C.F. provincial leader, paid tribute to the work of Mr. Miller and his interests in the organization, while other expressions of association with the guest of honor were made by A. Richardson, Jack Flowers, Malcolm Ainslie and Thomas Steele, all of whom spoke of the efforts of Mr. Miller in promoting the interests of labor and of the certain results of such works in his more than a quarter-century of residence in Edmonton.

Mr. Miller replied briefly, saying he had made many friends in the city in the past 37 years—a friendship which meant more than mere wealth.

On behalf of the organization, Mrs. Miller was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Mrs. J. East.

Contributing to the proceedings were Jack Dennistoun as master of ceremonies, and E. Langridge with vocal solos, with May Dennistoun and Helen Porter acting as accompanists.

Those in charge of arrangements were Dr. Geneva Misener, Mrs. J. Kiniski and Mrs. Edith Rogers.

Art Thornton was chairman.

School Teacher, Parents Appear Before Trustees

Controversy between parents of children attending Westglen school and Miss M. B. Munro, French teacher in the high school, whom parents claim is unable to adequately instruct and impartially discipline the children in her class, was again aired before the Edmonton school board at a meeting Tuesday night.

This matter was first brought to the trustees' attention by a delegation at a board meeting two weeks ago. Miss Munro has been requested to appear the same evening the grievance was discussed, but had not done so. She came to the Tuesday meeting, however, prepared to defend herself.

STRAIGHT DENIAL

In the report given she stated, "my reply to the charges made against me is straight denial."

Answering the charge that she was unable to adequately instruct the pupils and tutors had to be obtained by the parents, she said, "in nearly every high school in the city there are pupils who have to be tutored, and this is particularly true of our district."

The spokesman for the parent committee, W. J. A. Thurston, stated that "after the parents appeared before the board the situation in Miss Munro's classroom had improved somewhat and had lasted until a few days ago."

There had, he said, apparently since been an "outburst" on the part of Miss Munro who made certain implications concerning parents.

QUESTIONS FIGURES

He went on to say that figures which had just been brought to the attention of the board in regard to the number of pupils who had passed in French from the Westglen high school, in comparison with two other high schools in the city and which averaged fairly high, could hardly be taken at face value. The necessity of employing tutors has to be taken into consideration, he said.

"The situation as it is, is intolerable," Mr. Mustard emphatically stated.

Another point discussed at some length was the fact that two boys who had been sent out of the room and punished by the principal would not be reinstated in the classroom by Miss Munro when brought back by the principal.

It was felt by some members of the board that this was a demonstration of insubordination on the part of the teacher and set an "extremely bad example for the pupils."

PRINCIPAL CALLED

The principal of the Westglen high school, J. G. Niddrie, was called upon to confirm certain statements as to the conduct of the children in the school as a whole and then questioned regarding the classroom under discussion. The general conduct of the school, Mr. Niddrie felt, was very good.

Complete conduct reports were given by Miss Munro, on two boys whose parents appeared before the board.

The parents of the boys in question felt that as both boys belonged to the cadet unit of one of the armed forces a more unbiased opinion of the boys character and conduct could be obtained from their commanding officers as these men, the parents said, did not like the implication by Miss Munro that the boys were "hoodlums."

The board is holding this matter for further discussion and investigation, before any recommendations are made.

TWO RESIGNATIONS

Two letters of resignation, one from Miss Nellie M. East and one from C. L. Lambertson were accepted. Five letters from teachers requesting leave of absence, namely Miss Alethaea Stewart, Miss E. M. Kerr, Miss I. M. Walker, Miss A. Y. Fleming and Mrs. M. T. Wilkinson, were agreed to.

A letter from S. E. Kenworthy, secretary-treasurer, of the council for Edmonton and District Home and School Association in regard to the effort being made by the school board to improve lighting conditions in city schools was read and filed. A reply thanking the association for its appreciation and support will be written.

A letter regarding the case of Miss M. B. Munro, written by (Mrs.) Mary C. Brander, was tabled until further developments arose.

It was agreed that a full time bandmaster should be established for the School Boys' Band. There was some discussion as to what could be done at the present time, due to the scarcity of teachers and the fact that men whom the board approached do not want to give up teaching entirely. No decision was reached.

A. E. Ottewell, was chairman of the meeting.

PO. K. L. Killips, R.C.A.F., 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Killips, 11326 94 street, who has returned home and will leave after three years overseas. He completed a tour of operations in the Middle East as an air-gunner.
